ROOSEVELT PUTS FUTURE OF CODES UP TO BUSINESS

President, Expressing Optimism Over U. S. Will Not Interfere If Industry Can Curb Chiselers.

SURVEY PLANNED TO PLOT COURSE

Brookings Institute Simultaneously Declares NRA Provisions "Dangerous, Short-sighted."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(AP)—NRA's future in the New Deal scheme was linked by President Roosevelt today to industry's ability to restrain its chiselers.

If business can police itself voluntarily, he told his press conference, and thus maintain fair trade and employment conditions, further action by the government will not be needed. If not, he warned, the government must intervene.

Most industries, Mr. Roosevelt added, are keeping close to the standards of the defunct codes, while others are not. First of all, the facts must be determined by a survey. They will furnish the basis for a decision on whether or not new NRA legislation is needed.

F. D. R. Optimistic.

These statements, interlarded with assertions of optimism for the business outlook, were made at his press conference before turning for a leisurely swing to the coast and a vacation voyage back through the Panama canal.

They represented, some observers thought at least a partial change in presidential viewpoint on NRA's future. Heretofore, Mr. Roosevelt had, publicly, held no hope voluntary agreements would prove of benefit. A very small proportion of chiselers, he said, could easily break them down.

Scarcely a month ago he asked the interested congressional committees to study the situation and prepare legislation for the next session. At the time he said business reports "indicate a tendency towards serious impairment of established standards by a minority."

This proposal for new NRA legislation was brought up questioning by New Deal opponents when, more recently, the chief executive assured industry it could look forward to a "breathing spell" in the administration's program of reform and regulatory legislation.

Brookings Critical.

While the President was speaking, the Brookings Institute issued a study.

Crackers and Cubs Gain Pennant Ground

Lon Warneke yesterday held the St. Louis Cardinals to two hits at St. Louis as the Chicago Cubs won their 19th straight victory. The score was 1 to 0, and the win placed the Cubs four games in the lead and four more to play.

And our own Atlanta Crackers went two up on New Orleans in the Southern league playoff. The Crackers won, 7 to 3, in a night game at Ponce de Leon and need only one more victory to be crowned southern champions and the team to play Oklahoma City, Texas winners, for the Dixie title. Stories of these games and other sport news appear in full in today's Constitution.

AMERICAN LEGION CONDEMNS 'ISMS'

Withdrawal of Recognition of Soviet Russia Is Urged by Delegates.

CONVENTION HALL, ST. LOUIS, Sept. 25.—(AP)—A vigorous international program, spearheaded by an attack on communism and a demand for withdrawal of recognition of Soviet Russia, was adopted by the national convention of the American Legion today.

The matter of the bonus, paramount objective of the World War veterans, remained among pending business, when the session adjourned at 3:15 p. m., nearly two hours after the scheduled end of today's business session.

Athens Lions Join.

All but 200 of the 200 delegates had deserted the hall by the time the fifth of its nine committees had made its report. For many delegates an interest was gone after the end of a two-hour battle to select a 1936 convention city.

Cleveland was finally chosen after four ballots over Los Angeles, Atlantic City and Denver.

A 21-point Americanism program, presented by a committee headed by J. J. Twomey, of Massachusetts, was unanimously approved by the delegates, who cheered repeatedly as the resolutions were read.

Subversive Hit.

Eight of the resolutions were specifically directed against "subversive movements" and formulated an aggressive 1935-36 program for the organization.

A policy of active opposition to the communism, nazism, fascism, and other "isms" contrary to the fundamental principles of democracy, was adopted with cheers by the delegates. "Combat all organizations whose purposes are to undermine, sap, overthrow or otherwise destroy the principles of American government."

'SAFETY DRIVING' CAMPAIGN TAKES STATE'S INTEREST

Constitution Drive for Reduction in Accidents Meets Quick Response. Cab Drivers "Sign Up."

Six hours after The Constitution of yesterday reached the homes of Georgia the "Safety Driving" campaign launched by The Constitution Safety Council had assumed statewide proportions.

Citizens from all parts of the state as well as from Atlanta were pouring in their signed pledges, pledges that they will observe the simple list of driving rules given which will assure if every driver obeys, virtual elimination of the toll of death and disability that is now the harvest of reckless and improper driving on our streets and highways.

The first large group in Atlanta to announce drivers of its motor fleet 100 per cent signers of the safety pledge was the Black and White Drivers' Safety Council, an organization counting in its membership every white taxicab driver in the city.

By the time the last taxicab had left the garage last night, every driver was signed and each cab bore the front and rear stickers signifying its driver was pledged to safe driving rules.

Among the first telegrams received was one from Nat G. Slaughter, president of the Athens Lions Club, which in apt words describes exactly what this paper is endeavoring to accomplish.

"Athens Lions Club," reads Mr. Slaughter's telegram, "promoting safety program joins with you in statewide fight against careless and reckless driving. Suggest you invite newspapers, civic clubs, P. T. A.'s, schools and all citizens to join in making Georgia a safe place to live. The enormous toll of deaths in Georgia must cease."

Campaign Spreading.

Others quickly came in and it is now evident that the campaign started yesterday will, within a few days, spread to every corner of the state.

The Constitution Safety Council extends a cordial invitation to every city, every civic club, every school, every P. T. A. and every citizen of Georgia to sign the "Safety Driving" pledge and to announce to the world, by the little stickers which will be furnished for the front and rear of all automobiles, that they are taking active part in this drive to make the highways safe for children, for their parents and for all the people of the state.

P. T. A. Congratulatory.

Mrs. J. Elmer Slider, safety chairman of the Atlanta Parent-Teacher Council, yesterday extended enthusiastic congratulations to The Constitution for inaugurating this campaign.

"I have been wishing for a long time," said Mrs. Slider, "that one of our newspapers should inaugurate just such a campaign. To say that I am delighted that The Constitution has undertaken the task is putting it mildly."

"I feel that with the immense circulation of this paper, it is a safe bet that it will be a success."

New Move Launched To Cut Electric Rates

The Georgia Public Service Commission yesterday called upon the Georgia Power Company to show cause by "rates for industrial electricity should be reduced."

Jud P. Wilhoit, chairman of the commission, announced the hearing will be held in the senate chamber at the state capitol at 10 o'clock the morning of November 18.

"This nisi was issued at the request of cotton mills of the state," Wilhoit said.

He said he expected both the power company and textile mills, which are large consumers of electricity in the industrial rate brackets, to offer testimony at the hearing.

Beware of Louis, Is Cobb's Advice

By IRVIN S. COBB.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 25.—Let the sport writers name him by what fancy names they please, but I'll bet you on this—the day after, and on every day thereafter, Marie Baer will think of him as that dark brown toad.

And now if young Louis goes on setting an example to some of the heavyweights, both plain and colored, by being neither a buffoon nor a bully nor yet a braggart, and if, by behaving with modesty and sobriety and some degree of dignity, he continues to reflect credit upon his own people—well, it's certainly going to take the heart right out of the next miscellaneous lynching-bee in this country.

And if I were Mr. Braddock, the present champion, I'd now go so far away from here, they'd have to run me down with bloodhounds and then throw a net over me.

Cab Drivers First Safety Drive Endorsers

L. A. Ludl, secretary of the Black and White Drivers' Safety Council, signs the safe driving pledge of The Constitution Safety Council while E. L. Abercrombie, business agent for the local taxicab drivers' union, looks on. All members of the drivers' council, which includes every white taxi driver in Atlanta, yesterday signed The Constitution's safe driving pledge and this morning every Atlanta taxicab bears the stickers on front and rear that show its driver is sworn to observe the simple rules for safe driving enumerated in his pledge. TRUCE PRECLUDED IN POLICE SCHISM

Pendley Reinstatement Is Termed Improbable; Grand Jury Calls Two.

The Atlanta police committee has no intention of reinstating Oscar H. Pendley, deposed secretary to Chief T. O. Sturdivant, of the police department, unless Sturdivant recommends that procedure, and even if the committee should reinstate him without Sturdivant's expressed approval, Pendley would decline to serve, according to his friends.

This development in the most recent schism in the department was believed to preclude any truce between the two principals of the latest police break.

Sturdivant was closeted with Pendley for about two hours yesterday, but when they emerged from the conference room neither principal would discuss what transpired.

Councilman Howard Haire, vice chairman of the police committee, announced the arrangements have been concluded to hold an off-the-record conference between committee members at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night at the Ansley hotel.

Outsiders Barred.

Sturdivant had not been invited to attend and no invitation will be extended him, it was said. In fact, no outsiders will be admitted.

The committee is scheduled to meet tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock at the police department and to take steps to remedy them.

It was reliably reported, however, that the committee will study the depositions of Pendley and the causes which precipitated it, and a decision on committee policies regarding drunken policemen, those who fail to pay their debts and other administrative matters will be sought.

There will be an effort to have the committee present a united front on matters which come before it in the future, thus eliminating divided votes, it was said.

While rumors that Pendley's friends will take a hand in his summary deposition were current, it was said.

Man Who Killed Father and Woman Sobs Out Dramatic Plea to Jury.

Weeping and tearing his hair as he made a dramatic plea to the jury to "turn me loose," Alvin Downs, on trial in Fulton superior court for the murder of Mrs. Myrtle Carter, secretary to his father, C. C. Downs, whom he also killed, related his life history yesterday in an unsworn statement shortly before the court recessed for the night.

It was a tale of the abuse, he said, his father, a well-known Atlanta safe expert and locksmith, had heaped upon him for more than 15 years until, he related, he was finally driven emotionally insane and ran amuck in the Downs gun and lock shop on Alabama street, where he shot and killed C. C. Downs and Mrs. Carter on May 1.

"My mind was a blank, I do not remember a thing about the shooting," Alvin sobbed to the 12 jurors who hold his fate in their hands.

He was extremely nervous on the witness stand, constantly running his hand through his hair and stopping his oration frequently to wipe the tears from his eyes.

Young Downs read his statement, which he said he wrote out while he was in jail awaiting trial.

His plea for mercy from the jury followed another day of testimony by witnesses, virtually every one of whom testified as to his meek peacefulness and reputation for good character.

Alvin recited the sordid details which led him to a distracted state of mind in which he declared he did not realize what he was doing. He told the jury he did not have the slightest idea he had shot Mrs. Carter until he was told of it later by others. He remembered firing several shots at his father, but he did not know how many, he said.

His brother, W. H. Downs, his mother, Mrs. George Bush, Oscar Pendley, former police secretary, and others were in the courtroom.

Warm Support of Rivers' Program For Roosevelt Reception Received

With mounting enthusiasm, loyal Georgia supporters of President Roosevelt continued yesterday to lay plans for the President's home coming here in November, many sections announcing new motorcades and members of the Georgia house of representatives responding warmly to the call of Speaker E. D. Rivers for a special meeting here Monday, when a program for official participation by the lower branch of the general assembly will be mapped.

As leading supporters of the President all over the state continued to assure leaders that their motorcades would bring the largest crowd in Atlanta's history here to hear the President and see a monster parade planned in his honor the following were:

Editors Back Motorcade.

Announcement by editors of newspapers in Thomson, Forsyth, Zebulon, Jackson, Griffin, Barnesville and Jonesboro that they would sponsor a joint motorcade bringing to Atlanta 10,000 residents of the areas they serve.

Announcement by Hugh J. Rowe, editor of the Athens Banner-Herald, that his newspaper would co-operate.

BIGAMY CHARGED TO ATLANTA MAN BY DECATUR WIFE

Former Associate HOLC Counsel, H. C. Schroeder, Wed Holden's Secretary In Ala., Mate No. 2 Says.

An Alabama warrant charging bigamy to Hubert C. Schroeder, Atlanta lawyer and former associate counsel for the Georgia division of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, is in the hands of the sheriff's office, Deputy Sheriff Emmett Quinn announced yesterday.

Deputy Sheriff Quinn said that Attorney Schroeder, who is under indictment at Anniston, had informed the sheriff's office that he would post $500 bond at once. Otherwise, Mr. Quinn said, the lawyer would be arrested and held for Alabama officials.

J. Wilson Parker, an Atlanta lawyer connected with the case, said he had been retained by the complainant, Mrs. Margaret Belle Picot Schroeder, of Decatur, and as a special representative here of Solicitor J. B. Sanford, of the seventh Alabama judicial circuit, who obtained the Anniston indictment.

Alabama Officers Coming.

The warrant held by the sheriff's office was issued at Anniston on September 13, following Schroeder's indictment. The deputy sheriff said he expected Alabama officers here today to return Schroeder to Anniston.

The attorney could not be reached for a statement.

Exhibiting documents which he said were copies of court records in Atlanta, Marietta, Anniston and Jacksonville, Attorney Parker said that his fellow lawyer had brought divorce proceedings against Mrs. Margaret Belle Picot Schroeder at Jacksonville since a later marriage, charging in these proceedings that Schroeder had been married three times. Judge Parker declared, "He failed to file a divorce action against his second wife until after he had taken a third wife. The divorce suit from his second wife is still pending, being returnable by the Duval county circuit court at Jacksonville October 7."

"These records show that in 1925 Mr. Schroeder married Miss Ann White, of New York. A divorce ended this union in 1929."

Second Marriage.

"On February 16, 1933, he married Miss Margaret Belle Picot, of Decatur, at Marietta. The ceremony was performed by the late Rev. J. J. Woodall, of Fairburn, the ceremony being performed at Anniston by the Rev. L. N. Claxton, of Anniston. Miss Woodall was secretary to Frank Holden, vice manager of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation. I understand the marriage lasted only six weeks."

"On July 3, this year, four or five months after his marriage to Miss Woodall, Mr. Schroeder entered divorce proceedings against his second wife at Marietta. The suit charges that she deserted him on April 1, 1932, despite the fact that the records show that they were not married until the following year."

"We laid the entire matter before the grand jury at Anniston where the alleged bigamous marriage took place. An indictment resulted, a bench warrant issued and it has been forwarded to Atlanta."

Conquering Lion's Lions Kill Soldier

ADDIS ABABA, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Five of Emperor Haile Selassie's big lions escaped today, killed one sentry, and injured five more, two gravely.

In their rush for freedom they devoured several of the emperor's petted Australian sheep and killed two horses.

Colonel Mekouria, the commander of the imperial guard, seized a machine gun and shot all five beasts in succession.

After Mekouria had killed the lions, one of the beasts was found astride a dead sentry.

During the night, the lion keeper apparently had allowed the cage door to remain open.

Soon the entire neighborhood of the emperor's old palace, where the cages are located, was thrown into an uproar. The lion hunt ensued in the darkness.

One of the escaped beasts approached a palace sentry who, thinking it was merely a large dog, struck it with a stick. The lion sprang and killed the man with a single thrust of his paw to the stomach.

The roar of the liberated animals awakened soldiers who, with torches and flares, began the wild hunt.

In the confusion, one soldier who was trying to creep up near a lion was shot by a comrade who mistook him in the shadows.

One sentry bayoneted one lion, wounding the animal in the shoulder.

Then the colonel appeared and "mopped up" the lions with the machine gun. The emperor decorated him for bravery and pensioned the family of the slain sentry.

Republicans Find Little Campaign Matter in New Reports.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Meeting in Washington today to draft plans for fighting opposition to the Roosevelt administration, the executive committee of the republican national committee suffered the embarrassing spectacle of seeing three separate agencies contemporaneously spread before the public reports expressing more optimism over the future of business conditions than at any time since the beginning of the economic depression.

But for the fact that one of the agencies, the Federal Reserve Advisory Council, is a non-governmental body which has not hesitated to direct scathing criticism at the new deal in the past, the G. O. P. executive committee might have suspected their defeatist program beneath a flood of improved business prospects.

No Record for Charge.

As it is, no room may be found for the charge. Composed of 12 bankers, one each for the federal reserve districts of the country, the advisory council just happened to make its meeting coincide with the G. O. P. gathering.

Briefly, here is what the three agencies reported:

That, except in spots, business conditions today are better than at any time in the last two years.

That a net gain of 155,000 workers took place during August as compared with the same month last year.

That the largest single week's business in home modernization cleared through the F. H. A. in the week ending September 21.

Met to "Skin" Roosevelt.

In the face of such optimistic reports as these the republican committee had met, the Washington press, one political commentator put it, for

New Hurricane Threat To Florida Lessened

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 25.—(UP)—Menace of a new Florida hurricane appeared diminishing tonight as a tropical disturbance in the Caribbean sea veered sharply toward the Nicaraguan coast.

A late advisory, issued through the federal hurricane warning system, said the disturbance, which probably is of hurricane force, was centered about 200 miles east-southeast of Cragua, Nicaragua.

The advisory said the storm was moving west at about eight miles per hour. The position of the storm indicated that danger it might strike the Florida coast late this week was abating.

A second tropical disturbance swirling over the Caribbean was located today about 100 miles south of Mount passage, moving west-northwestward. The storm, of less severe intensity than the former, was approximately 500 miles southeast of Miami.

Bodies of Aged Couple Found; Nephew Held

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The bodies of an elderly man and woman, believed to be Mr. and Mrs. Henry Steinboer, of Los Angeles, were located by divers tonight in a submerged automobile in the San Pedro harbor.

The couple's 19-year-old nephew, Leroy Drake, confessed, Detective Lieutenant Frank Condafer said, that he saw them die from poison and then pushed the car off a pier last Saturday.

ROME PRESS WARNS NEW RELATIONS WITH BRITAIN WILL NOT AFFECT DETERMINATION TO CONQUER EAST AFRICAN KINGDOM.

ROME, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Improved relations between Great Britain and Italy resulted tonight in the calling off of the sailing from Naples tomorrow of 10,000 soldiers for Libya.

Because of the decline in tension between the two governments, it was explained, the reinforcements in Libya, which borders upon Egypt, are not necessary.

The better feeling resulted from mutual assurances between Premier Mussolini and Sir Samuel Hoare, British foreign secretary.

Africa Move Continues.

It was emphasized, however, the departure of troops for East Africa will continue unchecked. The Italia sailed from Naples today with 1,200 men and tomorrow the Colombo and Merano depart with approximately 2,000 soldiers.

Italy will never take the first step in transforming the Italo-Ethiopian conflict into a European one, said a government statement.

This was part of a communique which disclosed Sir Samuel, in a personal message to Premier Mussolini, said Britain was "particularly desirous of eliminating every useless misunderstanding between the two countries."

The communique mentioned Haile was "speaking as an old friend of Italy." Italy, the communique said, "has not and does not wish to have any difference with England."

Eritrea Border Closed.

Other developments in the situation saw the closing of the border between Eritrea and Ethiopia to commerce by order of the governor of Gondar, according to a Stefani (Italian) news agency dispatch; a communique of the Catholic action organization of Italy indirectly supporting the government's position.

ROOSEVELT DEFINES 'IMPLEMENTS OF WAR'

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(UP)—President Roosevelt issued a proclamation today defining "implements of war" under the neutrality act. The list includes all rifles of 26.5 caliber and above.

The list is not the embargo list, which the President is required to issue automatically against any nation that declares war before March 1. If an embargo is declared, Mr. Roosevelt must proclaim a new list, but it may contain the same items or may be made even more inclusive.

The proclamation lists six categories of "taboo" materials, all obviously designed for purposes of war. Supplies indirectly required for belligerent use, such as cotton, iron and foodstuffs, were omitted.

All types of aircraft were defined as implements of war.

After November 29, manufacturers, importers and exporters must be registered with the State Department and the export and import of the articles licensed.

State Committee Urges U. S.

Train in U. S.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(AP)—A plan for the federal government to pay youths to work on farms and thereby teach them practical farming has been put before the federal committee on apprentice training.

It was worked out by the Georgia committee on apprentice training with Lasseter, in outlining the plan to the federal committee, said it had the support of organized labor, industry, and agriculture in Georgia. What disposition would be made of it was not indicated by committee officials.

He suggested the plan as a method of supplying the needed additional trained farmers.

He added they were unwilling to have the boys work for them for nothing and Lasseter suggested the youth administration pay them the same rates being allowed boys who go to schools and colleges. He estimated

COAL STRIKE DISPUTE REMAINS UNSETTLED

Wage Differentials Split Negotiators; Plenty of Fuel on Hand.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Arguments over wage differentials today put a new schism between the operators and miners seeking a wage-hour contract to end the three-day-old soft coal strike.

The disagreement over what wage increase Appalachian producers would give their miners remained, however, the major gulf separating the contract negotiators.

Neither side had yielded ground up to tonight, the producers reiterating they offered a 7 1/2-cent-a-ton increase for miners digging coal and the miners steadily repeating they could and would accept nothing less than a 9-cent increase. That was their stand when the coal strike was called in the early hours of Monday.

Guffey Group Meets.

Another element in the coal situation took shape today—but still so distant from the immediate strike situation as to leave its ultimate influence unknown. The national coal commission, product of the administration's Guffey coal bill, met for the first time at the White House.

The commissioners, named last week by President Roosevelt, first met with Marvin H. McIntyre, a White House secretary, then planned to hold a later talk with the President himself. The administration expressed the theory of the coal act is that it will exert a stabilizing influence on the industry's price structure and thereby reflect favorably on wage levels.

Talk was current today in the lobby of the hotel where the strike negotiating committee met that the producers would give way in the tonnage rate fight if they obtained satisfactory concessions from the miners on some working conditions. This, however, had no immediate official confirmation.

Basis of Dispute.

The wage differential discussion—arising from a request by southern Appalachian producers for a 40-cent differential on day rates under the Virginia and Harlan fields—was a potential troublemaker. Virginia producers were reported reliably to be ready to refuse to sign a new contract.

Southeastern Fair Officials Invite Georgians Here

Seven towns in north Georgia were officially invited to the Southeastern Fair and Cotton States Exposition, September 29 through October 6, by Atlantans yesterday. Among those who spoke in behalf of the fair were, left to right, Mike Benton, president of the Southeastern Fair Association; Luke Arnold, Mayor Key's secretary; Miss LaRue Wilson, "Miss Atlanta" for 1935; W. R. Ulrich, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce; and George Yancey Jr., secretary of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Staff photo.

Motorcade of Southeastern Fair Bids North Georgians To Attend

The motorcade of the Southeastern Fair Association, which featured Lucky Teter, famous "hell driver," moved on an all-day trip through seven towns in north Georgia like a great circus caravan yesterday.

Hundreds of citizens in Marietta, Acworth, Cartersville, Rome, Calhoun, Smyrna and Canton saw Lucky Teter roar down their main thoroughfares at break-neck speed, as he tried to overturn his motor car. An official invitation to the Southeastern Fair and Cotton States Exposition, which begins Sunday, was given the towns by fair officials and civic leaders of Atlanta. A motorcade of some 25 cars, including Lucky Teter's show trucks, made the trip.

Mayors and other city officials welcomed Mike Benton, president of the fair association, saying that they expected the fair to be the greatest Atlanta has ever had. Great numbers flocked around the motorcade in every town.

Motorcade Entertained.

At Rome, members were welcomed by John R. Hornady, editor of the Rome News-Tribune, and president of the Chamber of Commerce, and by a number of city officials. Speeches of Atlantans, Mr. Hornady, H. H. Keel and other city commissioners, were broadcast over station WAGA from the Hotel General Forrest, where the motorcade was entertained at luncheon.

Mike Benton pictured the fair to the guests here as he did in all towns. He pointed out that for the first time since the depression most all of the exhibition space in the livestock and poultry buildings was taken. He pointed out also that for the first time since the depression most all of the exhibition space in the livestock and poultry buildings was taken. He pointed out also that for the first time since the depression most all of the exhibition space in the livestock and poultry buildings was taken.

At Marietta, the motorcade was welcomed by Mayor Carl Butler and other officials. At Acworth, Mayor Carl Butler and other officials. At Cartersville, Mayor Carl Butler and other officials. At Rome, Mayor Carl Butler and other officials. At Calhoun, Mayor Carl Butler and other officials. At Smyrna, Mayor Carl Butler and other officials. At Canton, Mayor Carl Butler and other officials.

Many Champions of Rodeo World To Appear in S. E. Fair Attraction

There will be thrills and spills galore when California Frank's rodeo, with its 40 champion cowboys and cowgirls, its drive of outlaw bucking horses and wild, longhorn steers, stage their daily program of 16 events, augmented by Hopi Indian ceremonial dances, in the Western Frontier Exposition at the Southeastern Fair and Cotton States Exposition opening Sunday.

It is doubtful if any traveling rodeo organization ever has had so many champions and celebrities as are shown in the line-up of this rodeo.

Among them are Mamie Francis, Georgia Peace Group will meet October 10.

Miss Jeanette Rankin, former congresswoman from Montana, was here yesterday arranging plans for the convention of the Georgia Peace Society in Sandersville, October 10.

Miss Rankin, who now is a Georgia resident and was one of the founders of the society in 1928, invited Governor Eugene Talmadge to address the convention. He said he will be in New York October 9, and doubted he would be able to return to Georgia in time for the address.

John Tate, a student pastor at the University of Georgia, is president of the society, she said, and Miss Sarah Moser, of Athens, is secretary. Pope Hill, secretary, and Miss Roberta Hodgson, lecturer.

F.D.R. PRAISES CHOATE AS FORMER FACA HEAD

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today made public a complimentary letter to Joseph H. Choate, who recently resigned as chairman of the old FACA which has been replaced by the Federal Alcohol Administration.

"Your administration was, to my gratification, fair, just, impartial, and non-political," said the President. "It set the pace for and gave tone and quality to the state liquor control systems whose executive heads were looking to you and to your decisions, rules and regulations for the pattern of their own procedure."

Franklin C. Hoyt, New York, already has taken office as head of the new alcohol administration in the Treasury Department.

PRODUCTION LOANS SHOW BIG INCREASE

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 25.—(AP)—S. M. Garwood, of Washington, production credit commissioner of the Farm Credit Administration, said here today that production loans to farmers and stockmen in the Columbia district, embracing the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida, totaled $12,633,000 this year compared to $7,932,000 in 1934.

Garwood, here in connection with the formal opening of the federal seed loan office recently transferred from Memphis, Tenn., said approximately 150,000 farmers and stockmen in the United States had obtained loans from production credit associations this year.

SMOKY HIGHWAY FUNDS PROMISED

Doughton Confers With Roosevelt, Assured of Six Million.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Representative Doughton, of Laurel Springs, N. C., said today he had been assured President Roosevelt would restore a $6,000,000 public works allocation for construction work on the Shenandoah-Great Smoky Mountains National parkway.

The allotment, made a number of months ago, was transferred to the relief administration before congress approved the new $4,880,000,000 works relief appropriation.

Doughton went to the White House alone, but he was accompanied by three highway officials in conferences with Secretary Ickes, the public works administrator, and Thomas H. MacDonald, federal roads chief.

Contract already has been let for a 12-mile link of the 400-mile scenic highway which will connect the Shenandoah National park in Virginia and the Great Smoky Mountains National park in North Carolina, and two other sections in North Carolina are ready for bids.

A small amount of funds is still available, but reallocation of the $8,000,000 allotment is desired immediately so more of the scenic highway may be placed under construction.

WOMAN WINS $2,000 FOR ACCIDENT HURTS

For injuries received in an accident involving a Georgia Power Company street car, Effie Watts, negro, was awarded $2,000 yesterday by a jury in Fulton superior court.

The woman, through her attorneys, S. Senk Aiken and Joe Johnson, sued for $5,000, alleging she was permanently injured in August, 1930. The power company was represented by Preston Arkwright Jr. Judge E. E. Pomeroy presided.

$110,000 Damages Asked.

SEBRING, Fla., Sept. 25.—(AP)—The widow and daughter of W. M. Drey, victim of a highway crash August 10, filed suits totaling $110,000 today against the Avon-Florida Citrus Corporation and S. J. Pendleton, drivers of the car.

Two Catholic Women Imprisoned in Berlin

BERLIN, Sept. 25.—(UP)—Elisabeth Schulte Essum, mother superior of the Order of the Most Holy Heart of Jesus, and Therese Dreier, general secretary of the order, were sentenced to imprisonment of 12 and seven months, respectively, tonight for violation of laws prohibiting export of capital.

In addition, the mother superior was fined 30,000 marks (approximately $12,084), and Theresa Dreier 10,000 marks (approximately $4,028).

ROOSEVELT APPROVES 300 MILLION FOR JOBS

President Plans To Allot Remainder of 4 Billion Fund by Tonight.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(AP)—A bottled public works program, intended to spread upwards of 3,000 projects, 300,000 jobs and $200,000,000 through the states, was approved today by President Roosevelt.

He sanctioned also a $100,000,000 list—likewise curtailed of low-cost housing projects. The Public Works Administration expected to begin announcing projects on both lists sometime tomorrow.

Before the expenditures approved by Mr. Roosevelt begin to flow from the treasury, the controller general also must approve of them.

Driving toward a November 1 deadline for ending the dole, the President said earlier in the day he planned to allot or earmark all of the remaining funds from the four billion works relief fund before starting his western journey tomorrow night.

About $1,250,000,000 remains which has not been split up among individual projects. If the President follows plans mapped about a fortnight ago, virtually all will go to the Works Progress Administration.

A prospective shortage of cash for the campaign to give jobs by November 1 to 3,500,000 persons on relief was reported to be the major motive for the drastic reductions in the PWA and housing programs. The works relief appropriations act contemplated $900,000,000 for public works and $450,000,000 for housing.

The President said the Civilian Conservation Corps—which is obtaining its funds from the same appropriation—would be held down to 500,000 individuals after October 1 and by July 1 reduced to 300,000. He added he hoped to establish the corps on a permanent basis at the latter figure.

CCC officials were unable to say just how much money would be saved by limiting the strength to a half-million.

Mr. Roosevelt's comment on the CCC was made after he had received a report from Director Robert Fechner on the employment status of former CCC members. Of 93,010 men interviewed in a survey, Fechner said, 36,614 or 39.4 per cent had found employment.

The slash in the public works and housing programs, it was learned, followed a confidential report the works program had only $900,000,000 with which to supply 1,500,000 jobs. Previously, $2,400,000,000 had been set aside with which it was expected 2,000,000 jobs would be obtained.

Even if all the $900,000,000 were spent on quick, cheap PWA developments, the fund could not be spread over 1,500,000 jobs on the present basis of a per man year cost of $850.

PWA officials reiterated that of the new projects which fail to move quickly into the construction stage would be rescinded, since many cities disappointed by failure of their eligible projects to be included in the $200,000,000 would be only too glad to have their developments substituted for slow-moving ones.

The President has decreed all the projects must be under contract by mid-December and finished within a year.

TWO CATHOLIC WOMEN IMPRISONED IN BERLIN

BERLIN, Sept. 25.—(UP)—Elisabeth Schulte Essum, mother superior of the Order of the Most Holy Heart of Jesus, and Therese Dreier, general secretary of the order, were sentenced to imprisonment of 12 and seven months, respectively, tonight for violation of laws prohibiting export of capital.

In addition, the mother superior was fined 30,000 marks (approximately $12,084), and Theresa Dreier 10,000 marks (approximately $4,028).

Mother Asks Injunction To Bank Romantic Fires

A temporary injunction preventing Betty Ludwig, 16-year-old high school student and beauty contest winner, from marrying Harry Waller, 25, was granted yesterday in Fulton superior court by Judge John D. Humphries.

The girl's mother, Mrs. Marguerite Ludwig, petitioned through the law firm of Mitchell & Mitchell. She set forth that she fears the two intend to get married. If such a thing should happen, Mrs. Ludwig states in her petition, Betty's chances of employment would be hampered.

The mother says she will not give her consent to Betty marrying Harry Waller, and she told County Ordinary Thomas H. Jeffries so yesterday. But she wished to be doubly certain the wedding does not come off, so she sought the aid of Judge Humphries.

The judge set October 5 as the date on which he will decide whether the injunction will be made permanent or not.

ALABAMA WARDEN SHOT AS 3 ESCAPE

Trio Force 13 Others To Flee With Them; Surrounded in Swamp.

ATMORE, Ala., Sept. 25.—(AP)—A warden of the state prison farm near here was critically wounded early tonight by three who escaped shortly after noon by overpowering a guard and forcing 13 other convicts to flee with them.

Warden Oscar Dees, in charge of track dogs, was shot down here early tonight as he drew close to the trio, escaped shortly after noon by overpowering a guard and forcing 13 other convicts to flee with them.

Two machine guns from Kilby prison were en route here to aid the possemen in the seizure.

The abducted guard, William O'Brien and the 13 convicts forced to flee with the desperate trio returned to prison late today and reported the escape.

McCluskey was serving a life term for murder imposed in Lawrence county, and Draper said he had been listed as a trouble maker and dangerous through his escape from Kilby.

He was serving 20 years for robbery from Montgomery county, and Jeffries 35 years for robbery from Morgan county.

ISLE OF JERSEY FEELS EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS

ST. HELIER, Isle of Jersey, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The Isle of Jersey experienced several earth quake shocks today, particularly along the coast. Stores and windows were rattled violently but there was no serious damage.

The pier at Bonne Nuit bay, on the north part of the island, cracked.

Whitworth was found on the porch of the shack and a pistol was found inside the adjoining room. He was a reliable citizen and no cause can be given as to his death.

BARRYMORE RETURNS TO SCREEN ROMANCE

Actor Does Not Deny Future Movie Plans May Include Elaine Barrie.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 25.—(AP)—John Barrymore turned today to the familiar and safe medium of the screen for romance.

He did not reject the suggestion, however, that his screen plans might include his protegee, 20-year-old Elaine Barrie. She is the brunet New York miss who lost a semi-serious race across the nation with the 53-year-old actor last week.

At Pasadena, where he alighted with his old posse from the train that brought him from Gallup, N. M., Barrymore declared: "I am going to work on a new picture."

Later, at the home of his brother, Lionel, he was asked point blank if his film plans included Miss Barrie. "I don't know. I may know later," was the reply.

"Is she coming to California?" "She is not," he said with emphasis. "Her interests are in the east."

By her side, he said, was a date with her in two weeks. He toyed with a tall glass in which ice tinkled as he replied:

"I don't know how long I'll stay here. They want me to make a picture in India. I probably shall do it."

Dolores Costello Barrymore, mother of the actor's two children, who has said she will press action on her divorce suit, remained in seclusion. Whether the two would meet could not be determined.

All this talk about John trying to avoid Miss Barrie, he averred, is inaccurate.

"Miss Barrie is much too charming to avoid. I never allowed seeing her. I didn't even know where she was," he said.

OFFICERS PROBE DEATH OF PAULING FARMER

DALLAS, Ga., Sept. 25.—Lemon Whitworth, 26-year-old son of Warner Whitworth, prominent farmer of Paulding county, was found last night, at an abandoned house two miles from his home, with two bullet holes through his heart.

He left home Tuesday morning to pull fodder and when failed to return last night the family became alarmed. Frank Couch, sheriff of Paulding county, and Rich Bone, coroner, investigated the case and state that they are unable to return a verdict and have left the case open for grand jury investigation.

Whitworth was found on the porch of the shack and a pistol was found inside the adjoining room. He was a reliable citizen and no cause can be given as to his death.

Mussolini Menaces British Might on Mediterranean

Next Sunday's Constitution Magazine will carry a two-page story illustrated with a full page four-color map of the great inland sea which is the key to Africa, and the possible scene of a great naval conflict—the Mediterranean, seat of many of the greatest maritime warfares since the dawn of civilization—since the time when the Phoenicians with their galleys established their rule along both coasts of the Mediterranean—the scene of the Grecian triumph over the fleet of Darius; over the waves of which rode the Roman triremes of Octavius Caesar to his victory at Actium when the love-mad Anthony, infatuated with Cleopatra, left the scene of battle to follow her retreating galleons, leaving the field clear for Octavius; the scene of Nelson's triumph over Napoleon's fleet at Trafalgar; of the American conquest of the pirates of Tarifa, ending their piratical domain on the Mediterranean.

"This is the scene today of the massing of the greatest battle fleet the world has ever known, ready for developments between Italy and Ethiopia, in which all Europe may become involved. Is this historic inland sea destined to become the scene of a world-wide struggle for naval dominance? Don't fail to read the story and study the accompanying map, in ATLANTA, GA., SEPT. 26, 1935.

AN APPEAL TO AUTO DRIVERS

The Constitution Safety Council, organization of which was announced in Wednesday's edition, is an appeal to the public conscience to bring an end to the needless squandering of lives on the public thoroughfares in and around Atlanta.

Already this year 33 men, women and children have met horrible deaths in automobile accidents in the city, innumerable persons have been injured and sorrow and distress have been brought to hundreds of Atlanta homes.

All because reckless, irresponsible or drunken drivers have, in most instances, failed to observe traffic rules designed to prevent these tragic tolls in life, limb and suffering.

In the hope and belief that the enrollment of the auto drivers of Atlanta in a city-wide safety council will bring these losses to the lowest possible minimum, The Constitution appeals to those who own and operate motor cars to sign the simple, seven-point pledge asked of a safety council member.

All that is asked of an autoist who carries the council emblem on his or her car is that he or she will pledge to drive at moderate speed on the right side of the road; not pass cars on curves or hills; to observe stop signs; not jump traffic lights; to be watchful of the safety of pedestrians; to give hand signals; to be fair to other drivers and refrain from reckless driving.

Similar safety councils are now in operation in other cities and their existence has, without doubt, brought an immediate decrease in the tragic losses from automobile accidents.

Following an era in which the people of Hartford, Conn., were shocked by the increase in loss of life in auto crashes, a safety council was organized under the sponsorship of the Hartford Times, and there has since been not a single death in the city from a traffic accident.

What has been done in Hartford and other cities can be done in Atlanta and an end brought to the carnage on our streets that has already seen 33 lives snuffed out this year.

"NO LONGER FORGOTTEN"

The state-wide spontaneity and enthusiasm with which the announcement that President Roosevelt had accepted the invitation of the Georgia delegation to speak in Atlanta was met, is reflected in the comment of the state press, both daily and weekly.

The newspapers of every county in the state report the existence of an unprecedented tide of enthusiasm that will reach its climax only when the people of the state send their way by the tens of thousands to Atlanta to greet the President.

The Albany Herald voices this sentiment when, in citing that Georgia is no longer a "forgotten state" so far as the federal government is concerned, it says:

The President will receive an oration, when he speaks in Tech bowl, the like of which no other man has ever been given in Georgia. That prediction is made confidently and without a single qualification.

It will show that Georgians really think of the President whose administration has brought greater blessings to their state than have come from

Compulsory Service

The Italian authorities are feverishly recruiting laborers in all the eastern countries. Only Egypt in the East and the government-owned general of the Dutch East Indies, where Italian recruiting agents have even gone to engage volunteers, have refused to let their nations be used as Mussolini's colonies. The natives of the Italian colonies, of course, have no choice. They are being rounded up in concentration camps and forced to work on the roads from the Red Sea coast to the borders of Ethiopia.

Somalia, who cross and recross the borders with the dexterity of snakes, have come back to Abyssinia to tell of the conditions under which their brethren have to work under the Italian yoke. The laborers get their keep and half a lira a day, and are chained up at night or locked up in barbed-wire enclosures, which are heavily guarded to prevent mass desertion.

This is going on in the colony of the European state, which is making slavery the pretext of her intervention in Ethiopia.

Female Sharpshooters

Not even the women are exempt in Italian Somalia. They are drilling like the men, rifles on their shoulder. When they are not in the trenches, they are in the barracks, where they are drilled in the use of the rifle.

Although the doings of the Italian army in Africa are not so well known as those of the Italian navy, the Italian press is full of reports of the exploits of the Italian army in Africa.

For God's sake, stop it! The decision of the police committee of council to ferret to the bottom of the destructive conditions existing in the police department is wise—if it is followed by a housecleaning that will put an end to the controversies that are a refection upon the department and, of necessity, deteriorating its service in protecting the lives and property of the people of Atlanta.

The public is disgusted with the constant regulations of inexcusable conditions in the police department—policemen drinking in uniform, failing to carry out the orders of their superiors, going on liquor-drinking expeditions in city cars, spying on each other, and engaging in other activities destructive to the efficiency of the department.

Atlanta cannot expect the kind of police protection it should have so long as these conditions continue. If a housecleaning from top to bottom is necessary to eliminate these conditions in the department—then, for God's sake, let's have it!

A police department should be run as rigidly, and with as little friction, as an army. Every member of the force must be made to know that his continuance on the job is dependent upon the efficiency of his work, and that if he drinks or indulges in subversive activities within the department, he will be summarily fired—and need never expect to get his job back.

If the present commanding officers of the department cannot bring about the necessary improvement in the caliber and efficiency of the force, then they should be supplanted by others who can.

Instead of growing better, the schisms within the department seem to be growing worse, and drinking on the part of the members of the force is evidenced by the continued citing of policemen for trial on charges of drunkenness.

The time has come for drastic action in clearing up the intolerable conditions in the department—and it is up to the board to see that it is taken.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON.

CONCRETE IDEALISM

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—New Dealers on the granary trail through here have the idealistic slant. They talk much of the social reformation and little of the sordid affairs of politics. Yet a political bloodhound does not necessarily have to have an unusual nose to scent the fact that someone has been working the other side of the street out here.

Ominous political footprints as large as the shoes of Democratic Chairman-Postmaster-General Farley seem to have been left on the shady side all through this middle west.

In K. C. they lead right up to the door of Boss Pendergast, who mixes concrete and politics, by the machine method, with excellent results.

FORMULA In case you have not heard, Boss Pendergast's idealism was learned in the lower wards. The bigness of his democratic heart may be measured by the fact that he has permitted one republican—a single solitary one—to hold office through these parts. The republican is one of nine circuit court judges whom Mr. Pendergast decided not to kick out.

This may give you a hint that, as Pendergast goes today, not only Kansas City, but the state of Missouri, is very likely to be dragged along.

And if you want to know where Mr. Pendergast is going, you have only to learn that one of his better men (Matthew Murray) was given charge of WPA relief work spending in this state by that well-known practical idealist of the New Deal, Harry Hopkins.

BEDFELLOWS In Illinois, the New Deal tie-up was with the Kelly Chicago machine; in Wisconsin, with the La Follette. Both machines, like that of Pendergast, are dominant controlling powers.

Outsiders may wonder whether any political bed is large enough to hold such strange fellows. Kelly, La Follette and Pendergast would not even speak to each other on the street, so radically different are their views. That may not be necessary under the Farley decentralized remote control system. They take the money, run their own bailiwicks in their own way, and may be expected to deliver on election day.

MIXING The Pendergast machine is a Vore model with a special accelerator. It does more than dole out jobs. From the inside, it is considered something of a philanthropic institution. The ward lieutenants look out for the poor of their neighborhoods, furnish food and coal at times to the neediest, give Christmas baskets, promote dances and picnics. There are no clubroom pool hangouts, such as Tammany provided for the young men to grow up in, but the same buses which take them to the picnics, deliver them at the polls on election day.

The head man in the ready-mixed concrete business. Consequently, very little concrete is ever mixed out here. But there is a lot of new building, a new workshop, a new federal postoffice, the newest and best air-cooled convention hall in the country. (The republican convention should, and probably will, come here next year. Hotel accommodations have been expanded.)

A new building bond issue of $400,000 has been put through. At $100,000 will be spent (with the help of federal contributions) on the new program. All this, of course, will be concrete for Mr. Pendergast, which will further cement his friendly relations with Washington.

Note—The law here requires contracts to be awarded to the "lowest and best" bidder. This is no obstacle to Mr. Pendergast. He and his friends are not always the "lowest" bidders, but are invariably "the best."

ROOSEVELT The street car motorman will tell you "the President is not as stout as he was" here. The businessman will tell you that all business is politically fearful, but business is much better and the immediate outlook is bright. These strongest anti-Roosevelt people, however, privately rate him no worse than even today, but are hopeful that the trend away from him will continue.

PROTEST The plaint of the businessman here is the same as throughout the middle west. In Chicago, Milwaukee or Kansas City, he will lean across his desk and tell you:

"I am not against reform. Lord knows, we needed some. The social security legislation is all right with me. But what I want to know is: Where do we go from here? I am not going to risk my money in sprucing up my business or expanding my plant if the government's going to turn socialist on me in the next year or so."

"The President's promise of a breathing spell did not mean much to me. That phrase, 'breathing spell,' sounded like he had some more fireworks in mind for later on. What I would like to have is a good feeling that Washington has done all the socializing it is going to do and that I can plan ahead without fear that some brain trust is going to get a new idea for cracking down on me or ruining me, or that spending is going to continue until the government ruins itself and me."

PRAIRIE PLACIDITY Don't fall for the rumors you may hear merely because a few farmers have been indicted around here for inciting revolt against government.

The situation on that is the Milo Reno crowd of prairie firemen has a relatively unimportant minority following. Its foothold extends into only two or three Missouri counties and perhaps a like number in Kansas. Once in a while, the firemen get out their torches and start a political bonfire. That is what happened to cause the indictments.

You may expect the culprits to be punished. The federal judge here is exceptionally competent (supreme court caliber).

OASIS The strangest sight in K. C. is one which must make Carrie Nation turn over in her grave every seven days. This state is as wet as a brewery vat, except on Sundays, when everything closes up. But across the river in the Kansas soil from which prohibition sprang (and where it is still cultivated), the law permits sale of beer any day on the assumption that it is non-intoxicating.

Thirsty Missourians consequently find their oasis on the Sabbath in the center of national rivalry.

SILHOUETTES

BY RALPH T. JONES.

Just so you may drive your auto And remain unharmed, alive, Is the object of the latest Constitution safety drive.

Of course you know there is no reason To secure a pledge from YOU— But we hope to make the other Fellow drive expertly, too.

Talking to Jim Holliday and the conversation got around to the approaching Davis visit and speech by President Roosevelt. Which recalled occasions in the past when famous figures in public life have been the guests of the city. Finally Jim began to talk about about 1855 which, incidentally, was the last public appearance ever made by the President of the Confederacy.

To Unveil Ben Hill Monument.

The occasion was the unveiling of the monument to Ben Hill, at the junction of the Peachtree. Later this monument, you know, was removed to the grounds of the state capital, where it stands today. Henry Grady first suggested the possibility of persuading Jefferson Davis to come to Atlanta to speak at the unveiling. He accepted and came from his plantation home in Mississippi.

Davis was always small and slender and by 1855 his health was exceedingly frail. His train was met at West Point, Ga., by a delegation of prominent Atlantans who escorted him to this city. Jim Holliday recalls how several of the younger men took turns in tanning the recumbent figure of the distinguished guest and how the train stopped at every station, not only to give the enthusiastic crowds opportunity to make their ovations, but also to ease the journey.

Apogee of Emotion. The Atlanta committee on arrangements had invited every living Confederate general to take part in the program and, heading the parade up Peachtree street, behind the carriage containing Davis, were General Longstreet and General John B. Gordon, on horseback.

Every Confederate veteran who could reach Atlanta was in the crowd, in his sacred gray uniform, and in the midst of them were men in tens of thousands to whom salutes were paid to their heroes and to weep and laugh and cheer with mingled emotions.

FAIR ENOUGH

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Shirley And Elaine.

The great chivalry heart of America will go out to a wounded dove named Shirley La Belle, who has sued Max Baer for $50,000.

The plight of Miss Elaine Barrie, whose parents are named Mr. and Mrs. Louis Jacobs, also will command sympathy. Miss Barrie is the young lady who became the protegee of John Barrymore, the old actor, when he left the wife and children who did not understand him. In her case, however, the attachment has been described as artistic rather than romantic and the inventory does not indicate the loss of anything of value—which is a great mercy.

Nevertheless, Miss Barrie, like La Belle, has an attorney, and it gives one a feeling of confidence in the fundamental decency of America to realize that the profession of the law always can be relied on to furnish counsel to fight for protegee and wounded dove. Miss Barrie's attorney's name is Aaron Sapiro and Miss La Belle's attorney is named Samuel J. Siegel.

If Only Baer Had a Sister.

Miss La Belle had the sheltered life of a chorus girl and had no way of knowing what Max Baer intended to do to her when he invited her to his hotel room at night. Her horror on discovery—too late, alas!—that the talk about a job had all been a foul ruse to get her in his power, as charged in her complaint, undoubtedly aroused the chivalry of her counselor, as it will stir the indignation of all men worthy to be called men. In that moment did Max Baer pause to think how he would feel if this outrage had befallen his own innocent sister? No. Max Baer has no sister.

Did he sit down on one side of the road with her on the other, and tell her with respect? Apparently not. Apparently Max Baer put his arm around Shirley La Belle and squeezed. Can a man squeeze an innocent girl in his hotel room at night when she comes to discuss a job and get away with it in America?

Suffering Of An Artist. Barrymore's married sister had been widely publicized, how was Miss Barrie to know? Of course, if she had known he was married to another and the father of children, she would have refused to become his protegee, because she is a young woman of high character. Miss Barrie lived in a world of art, and she would have refused to become an actress, perhaps even more renowned than Shirley La Belle. There are some places in America where the word "protegee" and blow her pretty little head off with her little .44 and the grand jury don't even ask for a case. It is assumed that the protegee knows the man is married. It is different when the protegee is an innocent maid with a head full of dreams, girlish dreams, and no thought of anything personal.

The law must take its course, but it is hardly such that I hope Max Baer and John Barrymore get exactly what is coming to them for acting as they did, if they did. A pure woman of God, Shirley La Belle, an unsuspecting protegee led on, are objects to arouse the pity of every man who calls himself a man.

In Far Corners

California.

America's first push of statehood to the Pacific, signified by California's admission to the Union in 1850, is marking one of the young nation's early steps toward becoming an ocean-to-ocean power, is 85 years old this month.

California has been celebrating the 85th year of its attainment of statehood with Admission Day, state holiday, but the occasion also recalls one of the most important and colorful chapters in the history of the United States as a whole. D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"Gold rush days, the opening of the great west, and establishment of a full-fledged state government on the Pacific coast all belong to the era of 85 years ago."

Outpost of Expansion. "When California was admitted to the Union in 1850, it was a long jump. The nearest state to California was Texas. California was a sort of outlying island surrounded by vast territories which in some cases were not organized into states until as much as 60 years later."

"In fact, California was believed to be an actual island or group of islands in early Spanish times before it had been much explored. Though its coast was touched in 1542 by Spanish navigators, California was not settled until 1769. Spain then added it to her Mexican territory to forestall occupation by England or Russia."

"Distance and sparseness of settlement kept California from ever developing close ties either to Spain or to Mexico. Many Americans went to California to settle, and there was strong sentiment for annexing California to the United States among these immigrants and among Americans who had moved to the area of the 'manifest destiny' of American westward expansion was taking hold."

Gold and the War. "Gold and the Mexican War made California a part of the United States. Not long after the declaration of war on Mexico, American forces in California, under the command of General Kearny, took possession of the territory and the area was formally ceded to this country on February 2, 1848, under the treaty of peace. Mexico ceded territory that now includes Nevada, Utah, Arizona, New Mexico, and part of Colorado, receiving in return a cash payment of $16,250,000. Only a few days before California was added to the United States, James W. Wadsworth had made his famous discovery of gold at Sutter's mill on the American river near Colusa. In a few weeks the California gold rush was on. By the end of 1849 it is estimated that 80,000 men had flocked to California. The large number of these were Americans, and the territory became American in fact as well as in name."

"California leads all states in irrigation which has turned vast areas of its arid land into rich fruit and vegetable farms. It produces all the bauxite in the United States and most of the grapes."

Twenty-five Years Ago Today.

Determined to bring to Atlanta the 1911 meeting of the National Good Roads Association or know the reason why, a joint committee representing the city of Atlanta, the Chamber of Commerce and the Fulton county board of commissioners, left the city yesterday afternoon for St. Louis.

And Fifty Years Ago.

Tailors and dressmakers are busy preparing the people of Atlanta for a successful struggle with the coming winter.

Leave Placid Men Inside the City Wall

While Hot-Heads Go Hunting Dragons

BY ROBERT QUILLEN.

The chief difficulty in solving social problems is not the difference in incomes but the difference in desires and temperaments. The conditions that bring happiness to one person might be unbearable to another.

The happiest literates in our commonwealth are the sons and daughters of the prosperous middle class who are yet in their irresponsible teens.

They have enough money for their needs, abundant leisure, no onerous burdens or responsibilities, and a blissful unawareness of bread-and-butter problems and the future.

That state, to the average adult, would seem the perfection of a Utopian dream.

Any man who has done his bit in the army can tell you how enjoyable it is. For the average buck private, despite kitchen police, fatigue duty and discipline, found army life a happy-go-lucky existence suited to his temperament.

He had the feeling that he was important; he had close buddies and a feeling of comradeship with thousands; he had enough spending money to supply his needs; he had the assurance of three meals a day, care in time of sickness, and a pension if he got hurt. And he was free of all anxiety, for he knew that a power above him was taking all responsibility and ordering all things well. An empty pocket never caused him a moment's worry.

That kind of existence would please the majority. Perhaps it would please nine in each ten. And it wouldn't be difficult to arrange in this "era of abundance," when machines are doing the work and there aren't enough jobs to go around.

But there are people of another type, like the soldiers gnawed by ambition who worked like beavers or played adroit politics to win promotion and place and power.

SOUTH GEORGIA RAINS HASTEN TRUCK CROPS

Farms in North Area Need Moisture as Southern Section Is Drenched.

MOULTRIE, Ga., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Excessive rainfall this year, while damaging cotton, corn and peanuts, has put fall truck plantings a full two weeks ahead of schedule in this district, a survey today showed.

Local seed dealers and farmers said large plantings were being made through Colquitt and surrounding counties.

Whereas farmers last year were delayed in planting their fall crops until October, eight principal truck crops are now being planted. These crops are beets, carrots, turnips, cabbage, spinach, lettuce, onions and English peas.

In many sections of the county, stockmen are beginning to sow oats and rye for early crops. Other crops, usually planted in October, also are being planted now.

While September ordinarily is a hot, dry month, this month has seen numerous rains. But farmers say the kind of weather October brings will determine how good the crops are. Meanwhile, the weather bureau in Atlanta reported growing crops and pasture in the northern part of the state needed rain, and damage to cotton, peanuts and sweet potatoes in parts of south Georgia, due to too much rain. G. W. Mindling, meteorologist at the bureau, said that in some trucking areas, especially near Hinesville, the ground was wet so long that extensive replanting will be necessary. Cotton had favorable weather last week in the northern and middle sections of the state.

Corn in the ear was damaged by wet weather early in the week in some southern counties.

SECRETARY HULL SAID TO WANT SENATE SEAT

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 25.—(AP)—The Press-Scimitar says in a local speculative political story today that Washington and Tennessee political observers agree Cordell Hull, secretary of state, wants to be a candidate in 1936 for the United States senate seat he gave up to accept his present appointment.

The story says Senator Bachman, democrat, Tennessee, serving the unexpired term of which Hull was elected, "may be sidetracked into a federal judgeship to clear the track for Hull." A bill to create a roving federal judgeship for Tennessee was pending when the last session of congress adjourned.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(AP)—When Secretary Hull's attention was called to reports published in Memphis that political observers thought he might be a candidate for the United States senate in 1936, he said: "I know nothing of the source of such rumors. I have done nothing and said nothing to warrant it."

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up, your stomach, you get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk. Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get that two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse any other else. 25c. © 1935 C. M. CO.

Community Exhibits Feature Cobb County Fair

Blackwells community exhibit, shown above, is one of the attractive displays entered at the exposition which opened yesterday at Marietta. This exhibit represents different phases of country life that may be maintained in a community, rules for sanitation, attractive home life, school opportunities and recreational activities. HEFLIN OUTLINES FEDERAL BENEFITS

Roosevelt Lauded by Ed Rivers and Alabamians at Adel.

ADEL, Ga., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Former Senator Thomas J. Hefflin, of Alabama, recounted benefits which he had accrued from federal emergency agencies, in an address before a throng at the Cobb county fair here today.

In introducing the Alabama, E. D. Rivers, speaker of the Georgia house of representatives, praised the Roosevelt administration and called attention to conditions now as compared to March, 1933.

Hefflin explained how the federal housing act "is making it possible for thousands of people to own their homes," how the cotton farmer "has been benefited," and cited figures showing thousands of unemployed returned to jobs.

Insurance of bank deposits and government loans to farmers for crop production also were cited by Hefflin, who asked his hearers to vote for reelection of President Roosevelt in office.

Another speaker was John W. Millsaps, of the Federal Housing Administration, Atlanta.

Former State Senator H. W. Nelson presided and introduced the speakers.

LUKE MAY TAKE STAND IN OWN DEFENSE TODAY

State Rests in Valdosta Trial of Ex-Judge of Court of Appeals.

VALDOSTA, Ga., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Judge Roscoe Luke, former member of the state court of appeals, is expected to take the witness stand tomorrow at his trial in United States district court on a charge of using the mails to defraud.

The government rested its case today after presenting a solid week of testimony, most of it concerning activities of the defunct Citizens Building and Loan Association of Thomasville, which Luke headed. The government charged Luke made misstatements in newspaper advertisements concerning the condition of the association.

Defense attorneys said Luke and Pearl Milton, of Thomasville, might be the only witnesses called by them.

Mrs. Milton testified briefly today, saying she was a first cousin of Luke, and a former employee of the building and loan association.

She said she knew nothing about the bookkeeping of the firm and that her relationship with the association, as a borrower, were all with the late Oscar Groover, former official of the association.

Groover was shot to death in Thomasville last year and Luke was charged with murder. The former judge said the shooting was an accident, and the jury acquitted him.

The government's closing witness in the presentation of its direct testimony was T. R. Chisholm, of Thomasville, who succeeded H. H. Merry, of the same city, as receiver of the association.

Chisholm said he found some deposits were not recorded on the books of the association; that deposits were handled "irregularly," and that the books showed the association had some second mortgages among its assets. The government charges the association advertised its deposits were invested in first mortgages.

The witness testified also that the association had sometimes made loans in excess of two-thirds the value of the property, that its books showed about $12,000 in second mortgages and about $13,000 in notes on which no collateral was listed.

LANIER FOUNTAIN

TO BE DEDICATED

Exercises Today Will Honor Textile Mill Official at Langdale.

WEST POINT, Ga., Sept. 25.—(AP) Honoring the memory of Lafayette Lanier Jr., textile mill official who was friend of rich man and poor man alike in this industrial section along the Georgia-Alabama border, a memorial will be unveiled late tomorrow at near-by Langdale, Ala.

Erected by small gifts from hundreds of citizens in six cities in Georgia and Alabama in the Chattahoochee Valley here, the memorial, a beautiful marble fountain, is in a park named in honor of Lanier. The park is across the highway from a school likewise named in his memory.

Approximately 20,000 residents of the valley contributed to the memorial fund.

For many years the agent of the Langdale mill at Langdale, Mr. Lanier later served as assistant to the president of the West Point Manufacturing Company, headed by his brother, George H. Lanier, here.

The unveiling will be at 4:30 p. m. central time tomorrow. John Will Johnson, of Langdale, will be master of ceremonies. He will touch the button starting the spray from the fountain, playing amid its varicolored lights. Two young sons of Lanier, and Mrs. Lanier will unveil a marble bench erected in his honor.

School children from villages in the valley and from West Point will lay wreaths of flowers at the base of the bench. John V. Denison, of Opelika, Ala., will be chief speaker at the ceremonies.

Officers here said they learned a man suffering from gunshot wounds had been given anti-tetanus treatment here, and also that a bed in a local boarding house where a stranger spent Monday night showed bloodstains. He left the boarding house yesterday and has not been seen since.

On the assumption that he went to Atlanta, Sheriff Luther Rickman, of Rabun (Clayton) county, who came here seeking the fugitive, asked detectives here to look for him, but no trace of the man was found in that city.

PERPETUAL MAYOR DIES IN TRENTON

Career of F. W. Donnelly Marked by 20-Year Fight for Waterways.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Frederick W. Donnelly, 69, once known as Trenton's "perpetual mayor," died today after an illness of several years.

For 20 years he was mayor, and throughout his career he fought for deeper inland waterways to compete with the railroads.

Even after he resigned as mayor because of ill health he continued his fight for deeper waterways. He was said of the commission which formulated plans for a 25-foot ship canal across New Jersey and was vice president of the Atlantic Deepwaterways Association. He campaigned for an inland waterway between Massachusetts and Florida to protect cargo vessels from treacherous storms at sea.

Driver of the other machine, who escaped unhurt, was R. C. Lowe, of 1188 Highland avenue, N. E. Mrs. Mildred Honea, of Ellenwood, Ga., reported the wrecked machine was stolen from her on Walton street, near the old postoffice. The accident took place at 4:30 o'clock last night. Mrs. Honea telephoned police five minutes later.

STOLEN CAR WRECKED; DRIVER LEAVES BOOZE

Five minutes after a car crashed into another at Greenwood avenue and Barnett street, S. W., last night, the machine was reported as stolen to the police. Meanwhile the driver had fled on foot, abandoning nine pints of whisky.

Driver of the other machine, who escaped unhurt, was R. C. Lowe, of 1188 Highland avenue, N. E. Mrs. Mildred Honea, of Ellenwood, Ga., reported the wrecked machine was stolen from her on Walton street, near the old postoffice. The accident took place at 4:30 o'clock last night. MUSSOLINI CALLS OFF SAILING OF 10,000

African campaign; and a statement by prelates of the papal court the pope would probably deliver a peace message in the course of his radio broadcast to the United States tomorrow.

The cabinet decided to meet again Saturday. High black shirt authorities said the one-day mobilization of 10,000,000 fascists might be called the same day if developments at Geneva or elsewhere warranted.

The test mobilization of national strength had been postponed by the government, said informed circles, because of the sudden hopeful turn of events.

The declared such a manifestation would not be necessary until a definite course in the crisis—either conciliation or a rupture between Italy and the League—became evident.

New Turn Explained.
The newspaper Il Popolo Di Roma warned "felicitous diplomatic extensions, determined by England's clarification of her movements in the Mediterranean, must not be confused with the Italo-Ethiopian conflict, the bases of which remain unchanged."

Reflecting official opinion, the newspaper said: "In addition to that living document entitled 'Barbaric Ethiopia' there is now added another document, namely, the official confession of the criminal."

The newspaper said this confession was embodied in Ethiopia's acceptance of the League five-power committee's report, indicating the east African empire should be subjected to the tutelage of a civilized nation.

GREAT BRITAIN'S FLEET TO MAINTAIN GREECE
LONDON, Sept. 25.—(AP)—A program for the massing of Great Britain's entire Mediterranean fleet in Greek waters, near Italian concentrations, was disclosed tonight.

At the same time the admiralty worked quickly and at top speed to rebuild the depleted home fleet.

Orders were issued for the newly-commissioned sloop Londoner to proceed to "foreign waters."

The secret destination of the Londoner, equipped with the most modern fighting gear in its class, was understood to be somewhere in the Mediterranean. The admiralty listed three battleships, one aircraft carrier, eight cruisers and 25 destroyers for Greek visitation.

Most of the fleet has been transferred to the Mediterranean, leaving the world's mightiest sea power in the unique position of having inadequate naval defense for its home sector.

Sea lords have called on all reserve sectors for help and the navy is working at fever pitch reconditioning, refitting and recommissioning ships long since placed on the reserve list or definitely pensioned off as over age.

Military observers in London stated that new news from the Mediterranean indicated that Britain is building up its air units there. They pointed out much concentration of information could be accomplished without outward indication of it.

An important pronouncement on Britain's foreign policy, particularly as it affects the government's attitude toward obligations in Europe, was forecast by the British press.

The statement was said to be likely within a few days as a note to the French ambassador, amplifying and reaffirming Sir Samuel Hoare's declaration Great Britain would remain faithful to the European obligation as long as the League of Nations was an effective body.

Informed quarters believed that such a pronouncement was satisfactory to France, although it might not mention specific undertakings with regard to Austria.

The socialist party backed up the National Ship Union's action in forbidding its members to make boats for the Italian army. It issued a document urging the withholding of certain key products from Italy to deliver a "salutary lesson to Mussolini."

LEAGUE COMMITTEE WILL REPORT TODAY
GENEVA, Sept. 25.—(AP)—At Geneva tonight an Ethiopian appeal for the dispatch of League of Nations observers to Ethiopia and declared.

"Italy is rapidly losing interest in what the League may or may not do."

That was the retort when the spokesman was asked what he thought of telegraphic appeal to the League from Emperor Haile Selassie, stating Ethiopian troops had been withdrawn 30 kilometers from the frontiers to avoid "incidents," and reiterating a request for impartial observers to "fix the responsibility for any aggression that might occur."

In all probability, the spokesman continued, Italy's chair at the League's council's homeshop table will be vacant tomorrow when the council begins to talk over the report of its "big five" committee—a report noting Italy's rejection of a plan for peace.

Tonight the council virtually had decided to "make and publish" a report of facts in the case, together with recommendations.

A British spokesman pointed out a commission of experts such as was requested by the "King of Kings" would not have the same status as the Lytton commission, which was sent to Manchuria to gather data upon which the council could base recommendations.

In the present crisis, according to the British view, the council already possesses sufficient data upon which to base recommendations.

If observers were sent to the Ethiopian frontier, it was felt, this would be another feature of League's warning to Italy. But practically speaking, a handful of officers would have difficulty in watching extended frontiers, it was said.

Fascism deepened as the council and the assembly, informed sources said, prepared probably to suspend sessions at the end of the week.

The council is to meet Thursday morning to receive a report from the "big five" committee, announcing its failure to find a basis for a peaceful settlement of the quarrel.

The council itself must decide at that time whether to proceed under article XV of the covenant or under some other article.

GREAT BRITAIN DEMANDS
ETHIOPIA'S INDEPENDENCE
LONDON, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Efforts among British statesmen to find a peaceful solution of the Italo-Ethiopian quarrel ended tonight as the League of Nations was threatened with failure tonight when Britain insisted

"Grand Old General" of Ethiopia and Wife

Hapte Mikael, leader of the "doomed battalion" of the Ethiopian army, which will be the first to face Italian guns if war comes, is shown above. He fought in the victorious campaign against Italy in 1896, climaxed by the battle of Adowa.

Ethiopia's independence must be maintained. Premier Benito Mussolini, who reportedly would welcome a compromise which would not harm fascist prestige, refused to negotiate on the British condition.

An Italian government spokesman characterized as utterly absurd a report Premier Mussolini and Crown Prince Umberto had fallen out over the Ethiopian campaign.

The spokesman said the royal house and the government were in perfect accord on the campaign.

The official declared Mussolini and the prince had not seen each other for some weeks and therefore could not have had words several days ago, as stated in the rumors he was denying.

LLOYD GEORGE URGES PUNITIVE ACTION
BRISTOL, England, Sept. 25.—(AP)—David Lloyd George urged Great Britain and other European nations—without France if necessary—to cut Italy's lines of communication to Africa and force her to abandon "this outrage against Ethiopia."

"What is the good of saying we have not the force at our disposal?" asked the World War premier. "The fact of the matter is the thing that frightens them the most in Rome is that we sent our navy there."

"They were scared. But what did we do? We at once sent a special message, we did not mean to hurt them."

The Welshman, addressing a regional peace meeting, described the moment as "the gravest since 1914."

DUCE, PRINCE RIFT
RUMORS PERSIST
PARIS, Sept. 25.—(AP)—French newspapers reported a story from the Saturday evening Refrance today saying Prince Umberto, heir to the Italian throne, is opposed to Mussolini's conflict with Ethiopia.

There is a possibility, the story said, of General Italo Balbo, governor of Libya and Italian air hero, leading a revolt against the Duce.

"Balbo, whose relations with the royal family are excellent, is also opposed to the Ethiopian campaign," the story asserted. "A large number of Italian superior officers share his views."

The article was reprinted without comment from the communist newspaper Humanite.

TWO SHIP LINES WILL SKIRT SUEZ
SINGAPORE, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The steamers Chinese Prince and Silver Sand today headed for New York, taking the Cape of Good Hope route instead of the passage which would take them through the Suez canal.

Officials of the British and American lines announced all their ships would transit around the cape instead of through the Suez canal.

Agents of other lines said they were prepared to change their routes if their ships if necessitated by developments in the Italo-Ethiopian crisis.

SELIASSIE REPORTEDLY SEEKS U. S. INTERVENTION
ADDIS ABABA, Sept. 25.—(UP)—Reports spread tonight Emperor Haile Selassie was seeking United States intervention.

The king of kings summoned United States Minister Cornelius Van H. Engert to the palace for an audience. Officials indicated the interview had to do with the League committee of five peace proposals. However, they refused to reveal the United States connection.

The monarch reportedly strengthened his fighting forces by ordering general mobilization in provinces bordering the Italian colonies of Eritrea and Somaliland, but nation-wide mobilization—designed to bring 1,250,000 fierce black fighters to the front—has been delayed by the rainy season.

Border forces were two-thirds or three-fourths mobilized. Heavy forces are massing in the south, where the initial Italian offensive may be met with a counter-attack into Italian territory.

ADDIS ABABA, Sept. 25.—(AP)—All able-bodied warriors of Ethiopia's northern provinces advanced today toward the Eritrean front.

The forces began reforming and expanding the military units which had been disbanded last spring at the beginning of the tropical rainy season. This is now drawing to an end.

The movement, in no sense a general mobilization, was a routine operation contemplated when the soldiers had been permitted to return to their homes while rains made the country impassable.

Hitherto, no complete front had existed in a military sense, only standing armies of provincial governors holding strategic points where surprise attacks might be likely.

The movement now in progress would erect a continuous barrier astride the passes facing the Italians.

POWERS SAID READY TO APPLY COVENANT
GENEVA, Sept. 25.—(UP)—The League of Nations council tonight will apply the covenant to the Italo-Ethiopian quarrel, member powers agreed today in private conversations.

This means, it is carried to its logical conclusion, if Italy makes an unprovoked attack upon Ethiopia, the League will punish her.

OUTLOOK FOR BUSINESS REBUFF TO G. O. P.

the purpose of "skinning Roosevelt alive" but after assembling Chairman Henry P. Fletcher found he and his associates were without knives to perform the operation.

Over their coffee cups they read accounts of the earlier advisory council business outlook. Economic progress, increased production, rising prices, restoration of prices and in general, employment were reported by Federal Reserve Board members by the council with no "ifs" or "ands" or "buts" in the gentlemen who comprise the council are in daily contact with workers, shopkeepers, farmers and businessmen in all walks of life.

They heard their real joy after being advised by the council that "everything in the nation is getting better."

Added Rebuff.
Coming to Washington with high hopes of scuttling the New Deal, the G. O. P. gentlemen had an added rebuff in the statement of Secretary of Labor Perkins showing an increase in total weekly pay rolls of $8,000,000 and a net increase of 155,000 workers for August.

From Stewart McDonald, federal housing administrator, came the additional news that financial institutions throughout the land last week did the largest single week's business in modernization of repair loans since FHA was organized.

Combined totals of modernization and repair notes insured and of mortgages selected with fees paid for approximately $14,420,775, compared with the previous high total of $13,846,297 recorded for the week ended July 27.

Building Permits Growing.
McDonald also called attention to reports from 742 cities showing that building permits issued in August for residential construction reached the highest monthly peak since October, 1931. The gain in residential building, measured by permits issued in August, was $18,517,575 or 207.6 per cent over August, 1934.

Financial circles also were interested in the announcement of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York that more than 99 1/2 per cent of insured banks remained within the system, although they had an opportunity to withdraw up to last Tuesday.

None of this was news, out of which G. O. P. leaders were able to make political capital.

FAVORABLE TURN SEEN BY REPUBLICAN HEADS
WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(AP)—National executive committee members of the republican party jubilantly reported a "decided turn of sentiment in the country" today to Chairman Henry P. Fletcher.

Fletcher coincidentally reported that prospects were "very good" for raising a substantial war chest for the 1936 presidential campaign, adding: "And it isn't going to be secret, either."

While candidates and issues bulked large in informal conversations of the party's "board of directors," Fletcher insisted they were not discussed in the committee sessions.

These he said, were devoted to routine matters of organization, mapping national committee activities, and discussing the question of organizing young republicans.

Fletcher also said that questions of the time and place of the national convention were subjects for the entire national committee, rather than the executive group.

Other committeemen disclosed, however, that there is a growing sentiment to delay next year's convention until after the democratic meet. In the past, the republicans usually have been the first to convene.

"Those questions are not in our province," Fletcher said, but added that "the general rule is to hold the convention in a place as near the center of the country as possible."

The national chairman talked to a large group of newsmen in one of the rooms of the hotel suite where the executive committee met. Reiterating his assertion that "we did not discuss candidates or platform, and will not," Fletcher said he had not presented to the committee a telegram from Frank P. Gannett, newspaper publisher.

Gannett had urged the committee and all republican leaders to "concentrate" on these two questions:

"How can the American economic system be made to function, within the constitution, so as to produce the maximum of goods and services?"

"How can the income of agriculture be raised, by constitutional means, so that the wage of 10,000,000 American farmers employed in farming shall be more than $13.29 a day, including AAA benefits, as in 1934?"

The chairman said he had written Mr. Gannett that "we are not discussing policies at this time."

Mussolini Prepares To Pay Natives Who Have His Viewpoint.

ROME, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Italy is already coining halars, the coin to which Ethiopians are accustomed, for use following the incursion of Italian forces into Ethiopia.

The national mint here, it was learned today, has been manufacturing halars, worth about 21 cents, for some time past.

Employees of the mint said the halars are to be used by the military and civil governors which Italy plans to install in Ethiopia. The money is to be used to pay off tribesmen who are to be used to suppress Italian domination.

CHATTANOOGA TO GET MOVIES ON SUNDAY
CHATTANOOGA, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Beginning October 13, movies may be shown in Chattanooga on Sunday.

City commission lifted the ban last night by a 4-to-1 vote.

The commission acted under a law passed by the legislature early this year to allow a four-fifths vote of the city governing body to legalize Sunday movies for that city.

Memphis is the only other large city which has allowed Sunday shows.

The issue here was strongly fought by churchmen, but the only commission who opposed the permission was T. H. McMillin, who voted against the ordinance on every reading.

Of the May, 1932, grand jury, which conducted an investigation of the forces which had developed in the police court docket of the recorder's court.

"During that investigation, a majority of the officers of the police department testified, incidentally, the investigation developed interesting facts regarding the close relations of the bondsmen with the various officers of the police department."

Among those testifying was Mr. Oscar H. Pendley, who impressed the writer, as well as other members of the grand jury, that he was a thorough and competent police official.

"I do not know Mr. Pendley personally, but am prompted in writing this letter in the belief that something is rotten in Denmark."

WOMAN KEEPS JOB President Extends Retirement Date for Miss O'Reilly.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(AP)—

The treasury took a new lease on life tonight—Miss Mary M. O'Reilly's service had been extended by presidential order beyond the retirement age.

Miss O'Reilly is the cameo-faced assistant director of the mint whose quiet dignity and ready charm have graced treasury corridors for 32 years. Officially, she is known as letter-perfect in her work. There is no case on record where she was ever forced to resort to a file for an answer concerning mint questions.

Next October 14 Miss O'Reilly will reach the retirement age of 70. But by special order of President Roosevelt she will be continued in service until November 1, 1936. The extension was granted at the request of Secretary Morgenthau who said he regarded her services indispensable, that he needed her in her present position and that it would be difficult to proceed without her.

DOWN'S TELLS HISTORY OF LIFE FROM STAND

nearly two dozen character witnesses testified during the day.

Surprise Witness. Martha Brannum, of Kentucky, sister of the slain woman, was placed on the stand last afternoon by J. Walter LeCraw, assistant solicitor, who sought through her testimony to discredit the truthfulness of young Downs. The woman flatly denied several allegations Downs made in his unsworn statement.

He said he had seen her drunk with his father, C. C. Downs, and that on one occasion she asked him to spend the night with her at a hotel. She swore both statements were untrue.

Downs' mother, the first of six women his father married, took the stand in her own behalf and described him as having always been a "sweet boy." During the day she wept frequently as she sat in a chair near the defendant. His wife was also at his side.

Alvin, in his plea, began his history with the statement that his father deserted his mother in Birmingham three months before he was born. The mother then moved to Augusta and worked in a cotton mill to earn support for himself and his brother, he said.

Worked for Father.
After describing the hardships of his early life, the defendant said he came to Atlanta with his father at the age of 14 to begin work in the shoe business with his father and brother, he said.

Married at 16, he asserted that even at that age his father did everything he could to lead him astray and he told of the elder Downs giving him whiskey and taking him out with women.

Downs is 31 years of age now. He related many incidents wherein his father cursed him and abused him in an unfeeling manner. This seemed to be common knowledge, for the jury of character witnesses, all of whom were acquainted with the father, testified the defendant had withstood his father's abuse "marvelously," as one of them put it.

Many had heard C. C. Downs call his son names reflecting upon the character of his mother, they said. Young Downs said his father was always drunk or drinking and was constantly quarreling and bickering with every one.

Boastful Fighter, Says Son.
"He thought he was the supreme ruler of Atlanta and he boasted he was the best fighter in the city," the son said of his parent.

"I tried to help him and I got him out of jail many times. I went with him lots of times just to try to keep him out of trouble."

"He bragged how he could get women and his present wife, Julia Downs, was only 17 years old when he married her. She was the sister of another wife of his, who died. Recently he beat her and kicked her so she became ill and it was because she was sick that Mrs. Carter came to be his secretary at the shop."

Day-Long Argument.
"On the day of the killing, he came in and began jumping on Bill, my brother. The argument lasted all day and once when I took my brother's side when daddy accused him of stealing a lawn mower and selling it, he cursed me and told me to keep out of it. I said I had a right to come to my brother's aid and he called me a damned liar."

"I also asked him to let Julia come back to work at the shop and he said he would not. He cursed me and Bill."

"In the afternoon the quarrel continued and he threatened me. He said, 'I'll knock your damned brains out, and a minute later he shouted 'If you don't put that gun down I'll make you eat it.' Downs said he was crying and could hardly speak at this point.

"Then my mind went blank," he asserted, as his excitement became greater until he could hardly control himself.

"I pray to God you gentlemen of the jury will turn me loose," he finished his plea.

Evident Ordeal.
The statement evidently was an ordeal to him and he trembled violently as he left the witness stand to take his accustomed seat at his lawyer's table. He was greeted by Paul S. Etheridge and B. L. Milling, defense attorneys, together with members of his family, Judge Victor B. Moore, presiding over the trial, recessed court for several minutes at this point.

Assistant Solicitor LeCraw presented John Wynne, ballistic expert; Robert Tuggle, telephone workman who was in the shop on the day of the double murder; Joe Carter, husband of the slain woman; and Martha Brannum, her sister, as the state's rebuttal witnesses.

Judge Moore threatened to fine LeCraw because he had called Carter and Martha Brannum to stay in the courtroom during the trial, but he did not. Etheridge objected to the testimony of both men and only a few questions were asked of the husband of Mrs. Carter because Etheridge pointed out LeCraw was seeking to answer questions concerning matters which had not been brought out previously in the trial.

Three Close Shots.
LeCraw sought to show by Wynne's testimony that a person would have to be in control of himself to fire three bullets into the same spot. Mrs. Carter was shot three times in the left breast.

The fatal gun, a bullet, a statement made by Downs to Pendley, and various photographs of the Downs shop and pictures of Alvin Downs taken immediately after the shooting were offered as evidence by the state just before recess.

Arguments of the state and defense will begin at 9 o'clock this morning, when the trial resumes. Time of each argument will probably be unlimited. Judge Moore will charge the jury tomorrow and his charge may include manslaughter as well as murder, it was indicated.

"I do not know Mr. Pendley personally, but am prompted in writing this letter in the belief that something is rotten in Denmark."

TAX ON COTTON UNFAIR, ALABAMIAN DECLARES

SCOTT ROBERTS CHARGES SOUTHERN INDUSTRIES DISCRIMINATED AGAINST BY LEVY.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Southern cotton industries, in the opinion of some of their leaders, have been discriminated against by the processing tax on cotton, T. Scott Roberts, president of the Alabama Cotton Manufacturers' Association, asserted today.

This is true, said Roberts, whose home is in Anniston, Ala., and who also is a member of the board of governors of the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association, because under the competition with the growers of the southern cotton mills were not taxed.

Japan collects $100,000,000 per year for its silk and scours the world for other growers of cotton," Roberts said. "The jute and sisal, made by pauper and peon labor of India and Mexico, pays no tax and usurps the market, particularly of southern cotton mills."

Origin in North.
"On top of all these grave injustices, there are influences in Washington giving aid and comfort to certain self-proclaimed textile labor union leaders, the same crowd that have brought ruin and disaster wherever it has touched. It is very noticeable that this labor agitation in the south as its origin in the north or overseas."

In a statement on cotton conditions in the south, Roberts, who is here on a business engagement, declared industries there are united in a desire for fair prices for cotton and the highest wages for labor that the business will stand.

"We have always been desperately anxious to lift our industry out of the low wage class," he said. "It is certainly a paradox that the industry should want high wages and high cotton, when pure selfishness would dictate low cotton and low wages."

Opposed Textile Code.
Declaring he vigorously opposed the textile code under the National Recovery Administration, which brought higher wages, he said "this great transformation in the labor status was brought about without even a suggestion from the so-called and self-appointed leaders of organized labor."

Regarding the price of cotton, Roberts said the southern industry has gone on record as opposing the continuation of the 12-cent loan.

"We are not unaware of the argument against cotton control," he said, "and we are not wholly in agreement on this great problem. It cannot be so, that thinking men in the south uphold an economy of scarcity, but it is all realizing that the south had to be done. Why mourn the loss of our export trade in cotton when the possession of it through generations has created widespread poverty in the south?"

"It is perfectly true that industrial areas can impose their wills on sections of the country. The south has had to endure a billion-dollar trade balance against them in the north. The south cannot impose a wealth-producing tariff against the north. The south is left with only one remedy and that is to build and encourage industry in the south."

DOTTED LINE HONEYMOON

By JOSEPH McCORD

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE. Jacqueline, although pretty public figure, rather at the Hotel Rayner, passes all her spare time reading of travel and adventure. Larry Cutter, however, is a man of letters. He is a famous explorer, and he is to talk of her longings to see the world, and startles her by saying she can realize her dream by marrying him. He says he has traveled much and struck gold. He tells her he's loved her from the first time he saw her. He proposes a marriage contract providing that he is to look after her always, but that for six months she may keep on living as she is, and tear up the contract at any time. She is disappointed with her bargain. She surprises herself by agreeing, but accounts for her mood by the fact that she has just lost her savings in the stock market. Also, that she is fairly the daughter of a famous explorer, and she is to tell Larry his proposal must be a hoax, but when she meets him again she signs the contract. He gives her $10,000 in United States bonds, and they are married two days later. For two days she doesn't see him. Then he suggests the movies, but she declines. Larry has had a bad day. He is to tell Larry his proposal must be a hoax, but when she meets him again she signs the contract. He gives her $10,000 in United States bonds, and they are married two days later. For two days she doesn't see him. Then he suggests the movies, but she declines. Larry has had a bad day.

After Larry and Jacqueline had left Terryville behind, he seemed to recover his spirits. He had "spotted" a very good looking inn on the way over. They would stop and celebrate with a real meal, if Jack were willing. "Not in any special rush to get back, are you?" He chuckled quietly, as the significance of his last words appeared to him. "Rather quiet, when you come to think of it, isn't it?" Jacqueline laughed in spite of herself. "I think that's the word I've been searching for all day," she decided. The roadside inn filled Larry's fondest hopes. Even Jacqueline discovered that she was hungry now, sitting at a cozy table, lit by shaded candles. About them was the low hum of conversation, white-jacketed waiters moving about unobtrusively, soft strains from a distant radio. "Will you join me in a little something... to our united health?" Larry asked. Jacqueline was startled from her reverie by the question. "No, thank you. I don't... I'm not a very good sport. But you order something for yourself." "Of course I won't. Didn't I tell you that I never took a drink alone? Here's to you..." He lifted his glass of water with a smile. Thereafter, Larry became the perfect host and entertainer to his bride. Their waiter, a thin negro with flashing white teeth, brought up the memory of an incident in Egypt, a trip up the Nile in a dahabiah with a friend. Jacqueline leaned forward to ask breathlessly, "It wasn't Mr. Allan, was it?" Larry's hearty laugh caused nearby diners to regard him in mild surprise. "Good night..." she began. Then she gave an anxious look. "I came very near saying that I... I had a very nice time. I did!" "Thank you," Larry's hands were gripping the table. "I will see you soon..." But you needn't worry. About anything. And Jacqueline was gone. Into the vestibule where she fitted her key into the lock with trembling fingers. Down the long gloomy hall. Home again. For a moment, she stood in the middle of the room, looking about as if she were in a strange place. Then at her left hand. Very slowly, she stripped the wedding band from her finger. With a half-cry, half-sob, she hurled the ring into a corner. Threw herself face-down on the couch and lay motionless.

Jackie sat up in bed with a start to discover the sun streaming in her two windows. For a moment, she could not locate herself. The early hours of the night had been terrifyingly long, filled with a jumble of memories, misgivings and loneliness. Then broken sleep, with another jumble of dreams. The final one had something to do with a strange boat, manned by black men. All of them looked like that roundabout waiter with the white teeth. A storm brewing and Larry missing. Jacqueline was searching for him. Ten o'clock... the first day of married life. Jacqueline Cutter's sense of humor failed her utterly as she reconstructed little by little, the events of the day before. She was strangely depressed and equally disinclined to admit the real reason. This sort of thing wouldn't do, she told herself sternly. It was Sunday. Her time for doing odd jobs about the apartment. There was the bathroom floor to be washed. Dusting. Mending. Her first task was to slip across the room and find her ring, still lying neglected under a chair. Jacqueline stood by the window and inspected the little badge, a plain gold circle, for the first time... Oh! There were initials on the inner circumference. Jacqueline held the

"No. This is straight goods." "I'm so glad. Then you have traveled?" "Rather. On my dad's bounty at first, spent most of my vacations going about. He was very generous. After I was on my own, I was more or less of a tramp... never content to settle down and work for things. I wanted to make a big strike, win a good pot."

How like Vince, Jacqueline thought. Then she asked, "Has your father been dead for some time?" "Thirteen years." Larry's mouth set in a sudden grim line. "Rather tough, too. Lost everything he had and... as a matter of fact, he killed himself."

"Oh, please... I'm sorry."

"That's quite all right. I'll tell you about it some day, if you care to hear it. Not tonight, though."

Then he was talking again to his mining quests. Making a stake here and there, moving to new fields. Mexico. Down into Bolivia where they wash black diamonds out of the river gravel. Over into Bolivia. Down to Chile. Back to the states for a try at gold panning in California.

And Jacqueline followed the Aeneid with shining eyes and bated breath, almost forgetting to eat in her excitement at uncovering so great a mine of information. For the time being, the earlier affairs of the day and their significance were forgotten. She was seeing the Land of Heart's Desire almost through her own eyes.

"I'm afraid that you got me wound up," Larry remarked with an apologetic laugh, glancing at his wrist watch. "I didn't mean to deliver such a travelogue."

"I loved it!" Jacqueline's eyes, as well as her lips, said that. It all was very wonderful... And over with, Larry was signaling the war to be like this. It seemed just a little sad.

When they went out to the car it was very dark. Larry produced a light leather coat from the rumble and insisted that Jack wear it. "You'll find it cooler on the way back," he explained. Those homeward miles were covered in almost complete silence. Both the riders were busy with their reflections, finding relief in each other's willingness to refrain from speech.

Larry was fighting down desire, his jaw grimly set. Here was the end of his happiest day... Forced to abide by the rules he had drawn up... Caught in his own code. He would play the game to the end but... only because he must. It hurt, but he went along with him under the stars. His arms aching with emptiness.

Jackie's heart was obsessed with a vague sadness that deepened with each passing mile. She was not sure she cared to analyze it. There was a little fear in her mind as well. It all was unreal.

Courtland street at last. The roadster stopped before the door of 907. Jacqueline already had formulated a plan of procedure. With a quick move, she opened the door, stepped out and closed it behind her.

"Good night..." she began. Then she gave an anxious look. "I came very near saying that I... I had a very nice time. I did!" "Thank you," Larry's hands were gripping the table. "I will see you soon..." But you needn't worry. About anything. And Jacqueline was gone. Into the vestibule where she fitted her key into the lock with trembling fingers. Down the long gloomy hall. There was the bathroom floor to be washed. Dusting. Mending. Her first task was to slip across the room and find her ring, still lying neglected under a chair. Jacqueline stood by the window and inspected the little badge, a plain gold circle, for the first time... Oh! There were initials on the inner circumference. Jacqueline held the

STORY OF THE POSTMAN.

IX—Early Air Mail.

Sometimes we see on a valentine picture of a dove carrying a letter. The idea may have come from the world's first air mail service—the "pigeon post."

The airplane brought a new means of carrying air mail—it was faster and safer than either balloon or pigeon post.

Twenty-four years ago, Great Britain made brave effort to start an airplane mail service. The route was between Hendon and Windsor, a distance of about 17 miles. Twenty-one trips were made, but then the service was given up.

Seven years later—on May 15, 1918—the United States opened an airplane mail service between New York and Washington.

In 1919 Germany, France and Great Britain started regular transport of mail by airplane. Letters mailed in London early in the morning were delivered in Paris on the afternoon of the same day. At first there was a fee of two and a half shillings (about 10 cents) for each ounce, besides the regular postage. Later the cost was cut to two pence (four cents) per ounce.

Friendly Counsel

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Mr. and Mrs. Blank, according to family custom, divided the daily newspaper and set aside a cozy living room to read. Mrs. Blank had the section that carried the woman's page while Mr. Blank had sports and funnies. "The Big News" said a lurid headline. "Is Dusty Pink?" Mrs. Blank read it aloud and snorted. "Big news to whom, I wonder?" Mr. Blank looked up from his paper with a frown. "To the average man," she said. "It's big news to you and all the other style-conscious women. Honestly now, couldn't you shuffle the cards with more tact? If your friends who had read that headline were to look across the table at you costumed in the 'Big News' Pink?" To which Mrs. Blank replied indignantly that she was no more and resented being taken for one by her husband. "Everybody knows that the best fun on earth to the average man is fun at his wife's expense and Mr. Blank being no exception to the rule, began to press his wife as to what she counted on for the average man's page. Everybody knows equally well that the poorest sort of fun to the average wife is being taken on such a joyride by her husband. Mr. Blank being no exception to the rule went quiescent and refused to answer the question.

However, these were not the last rites over the topic. There can be no last rites over any subject so long as a wife left hanging on the defensive side of it. It doesn't matter whether she climbed up or got hung or was hoisted up by her husband. An hour later Mrs. Blank thought she saw a good opening so she bored in with a terrific left to the midriff, calling Mr. Blank's attention to the fact that he had been reading sports and funnies for one solid hour, indicating pretty clearly that his taste in news was not the best. He responded with a smashing right to her face, giving her to understand that he was not ashamed of his "news nose" and wouldn't lie about it either as she had done when the dusty pink was in her eyes. That punch doubled her up and she was saved from going down by the welcome sound of the door, calling them to their respective places at the head and foot of the dinner table.

Dinner over they returned to the improvised ring and after a few graceless blows had been exchanged, including several that were patently too low, each side was again engaged, decided to call it a draw and go to bed.

But Mr. Blank was a glutton for punishment; so next morning at the breakfast table he smiled indulgently at Mrs. Blank and asked: "Well, my dear, have you decided what constitutes Big News for a woman's page?" "Yes," she replied. "I have. I think there should be an article on how to make up and dress to please a husband's interest, an article on the sort of food to prepare to please him, another on various means of entertaining him and holding him to the heartstone and finally on an effective means of putting him out and his misery if he doesn't respond to kindness and make himself a pleasant housemate to his wife."

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Letters unsuitable for publication will be answered personally provided they contain stamped, self-addressed envelope. All names are held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, in care of this newspaper.

NANCY PAGE

It's An Embroidered Bib With An Animal for Susan

By FLORENCE LA GANKE

John David and Susan were both going to get simple embroidered bibs for Christmas gifts. Nancy selected a white bib with blue polka dots for one bib and white with red polka dots for the other bib. Each bib was bound in bias tape with stitched ties of bias tape. The blue polka dots were bound in red and red polka dots in white.

Nancy could have used unbleached muslin or gingham of good quality. John David's bib had a bear worked on it and Susan's was gay with a squirrel. Nancy has the designs for these animals on her direction sheet. You may obtain it by following the instructions given below. The two designs are just the right size for the bibs.

The size of the bib is given also on this sheet.

By holding the direction sheet to the window and covering it with the cloth you will be able to trace the design. Or, if heavier material is used for the bib transfer the design with carbon paper and pen or pencil.

Note that the outline is not continuous but is made up of a series of broken lines, especially for the tail of the squirrel.

In working these Nancy suggests you follow her plan.

She used six-strand fast color embroidery cotton. The short lines are made up of one stitch only. The longer ones have one stitch but it is couched in place with two or three fine stitches.

The rest of the body is done in fine outline stitch. The eye is worked solidly in the squirrel. The eye and the big muzzle nose of the bear are done in satin or French solid embroidery, also.

Don't try to make the design too solid or real. You ought to be able to work the whole design in three-quarters of an hour. Think how easy it will be to make up sets of these for your friend's small children. They will love the animals. More of them will appear soon. For Nancy has worked up quite a series. Nancy plans to give one young member of her acquaintance four bibs for her two-year-old who has not learned the safest and surest unsplittable route from dish to mouth.

Direction leaflet for making "Embroidered Bib" may be obtained by sending three cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Nancy Page, care of The Atlanta Constitution. (Copyright, 1935, for The Constitution.)

UNIVERSALLY BECOMING SHIRTMAKER HAS MANY FABRIC POSSIBILITIES.

Pattern 2486. So becoming to every age and size, you need not consider the fact for this popular pattern. The business or schoolgirl might choose a washable plaid, or checked wool-appearing cotton in lively fall shades. For a more important town frock, velveteen, corduroy or wool crepe would be about perfect, while for "dress-up" occasions there's the parade of silks and satins to choose from. That simple Peter Pan collar is a charming "frame" for any face, the bodice softly gathered or darted to the yoke, flattering to any figure. And get it in top, they also pass with solid seven and eight card suits, with rock reverses. Twice they passed with two bids.

At the end of the session, the champions of contract bridge were the two dear old grandmothers.

It proved that it pays to pass. Maybe it also proves something is radically wrong with our championships.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question—How many tricks can I afford to be set to save the rubber?

Answer—You can afford to be set two tricks, doubled, if you are not vulnerable. The penalty in either case is 500 points, which is the highest penalty you should accept willingly.

Write your bridge troubles and problems to Ely Culbertson, care of The Constitution, enclosing a self-addressed stamped envelope.

The Unforgivable Sin.

The standard target for most bridge humor is the player who is "so dumb that he can't understand his partner's ace."

To make this type of player feel better, I proudly show a case in which it was good play to trump partner's ace.

Crackers Rally To Take Second Straight From Pels, 7-3

Professor Macon Jones, the esteemed secretary of the New Orleans baseball club, is forced, much against his will, to carry in his bag, now and then, a little tonic for the boys of the press and his friends.

They keep dropping up to his room on these road trips and coughing and looking like a man in great need of a tonic. This is the cue for Professor Jones to get himself up out of his chair, open his bag and extract therefrom the tonic.

This is all very well and fine and the professor is much esteemed for himself alone and also for his tonic. But stopping at hotels here and there he finds that the maids who sweep the rooms and make the beds during the absence of the guests, frequently find themselves coughing and in need of tonic. So, Professor Jones often returns to his room from the ball games to find his tonic has been swigged down to nothing. Or almost nothing. Which is almost as bad as nothing.

So the professor has perfected a protection for his tonic. He went to one of our five-and-ten stores and he purchased him a large rat trap. It was a vicious rat trap, practically large enough for big-game hunting.

This trap he set and placed in his bag just over the portion of tonic. Over the trap he placed a sheet of tissue paper.

The bag is a zipper bag and the method of those swigging his tonic had been to zip the bag open a bit, insert the hand and fumble around for the tonic.

It has worked very well indeed. And Professor Jones has left behind him a trail of bruised and broken fingers. Whenever the professor sees one of the maids with a wrapped-up finger, he smiles happily and says, "Ah, you have been hunting for tonic, I see."

But the word is out. His bag is being let severely alone. The word is out that Professor Macon Jones carries a brand of tonic which leaps out of the bottle and bites off the fingers.

So he returns to his room to find that his cold tonic is intact and not swigged down to nothing. Or almost nothing.

The idea is not patented. Professor Jones gives it freely to the traveling public.

BOXING SKILL.

One would think, after all the furor boxers create in their wake, that the prize ring professors would teach boxing as a science.

The great boxers have caused almost as much excitement in ring history as the punchers. There was Jim Corbett, who had a following which was all but fanatical in its loyalty to Gentleman Jim. And then came Gene Tunney. And now comes Joe Louis, the colored boy.

Louis has the rare combination. He can box and punch. Boxing can be taught. But punching can't. Yet because of the time element required, few teachers of boxing go in for boxing. They get their big fellows and they teach them some of the fundamentals, such as holding up the hands and never leading with a right, and so forth and so on. To such a low degree had boxing sunk that it was hailed as a master bit of strategy when Jim Braddock kept circling away from Max Baer's cocked right hand. Yet circling away from a right hand is elemental.

There never was a great boxer who didn't go far in the fight game, even if he couldn't stay in there and trade leather. The great boxers rarely come out of the game with their ears crumpled into cauliflower and their noses bent and their brains a bit warped.

But the plug-uglies who know only how to wade in and slug it out until someone drops or gives ground, they come out wrecked and broken.

Joe Louis learned how to box. And in learning to box he supplemented a natural ability to punch. Veteran fighters looking at him before the Carnera fight said of him that he knew as much as a fighter with 10 years' experience. He made no false moves. He punched to the selected spot. There was no wild throwing of leather. And he did it again against Baer.

Yet the boxing teachers, because it requires time, keep tossing in sluggers and then staring in amazement when once in ten years a real boxer comes along. Boxing can be taught.

A TRIBUTE TO OUR BRAVE LADS.

Wayne Dewey, still excited from watching Tuesday night's victory by our brave lads, the Crackers, over those Pelicans, sat down and wrote:

"My pals and I just returned from the ball game, and we had our autograph books with us and we got all the Crackers and some of the Pels. Eddie Moore took time to autograph our books. We kids pull for the Crackers because they are so friendly and such regular fellows to bother with us. Guess you know how we kids feel because you were a kid once yourself. Here's hoping the Crackers win the pennant. Please tell them we are all for them."

It is a friendly ball club, this one which represents our town. The people sense that. And that explains why our town turned out more than 330,000 people to see them play. They were a good baseball club. That had to be first. But secondly, this club managed to get over to the fans in the stands the fact that

ALEX UNLIKELY TO LET CHANCE GET IN OPENER

Brittain and Fitzsimons Will Be Ready for P. C.

By Jack Troy.

A combination of freshmen and Gray Devils fired and fell back in the pseudo Presbyterian role against the varsity yesterday at the R. S. Bowl.

After a time, Coach Bill Alexander, rather satisfied that his players could find their way about alone on the defensive, sent the varsity away with Coach Bobby Dodd to drill on punting and pass defense and devoted the rest of the afternoon to "smartening up" the reserves.

There is a definite need of reserves for the opening game against P. C. Saturday and the drive is on.

It is hardly likely Coach Alex will take a chance with Phil Chance, angry varsity tackle, in the opening game. Chance has a badly abscessed wisdom tooth that has kept him from practice for a week. He was out in a track suit yesterday. The tooth wasn't out, however. Or rather it was. With Chance. The actual extraction hasn't taken place, though. Chance may not be of much help to the varsity in the first two games.

NIXON INJURED.

Nixon, a guard, has an injured side that will likely keep him out of action, too.

All the news from the Plats is not of a disheartening nature, however.

Fulton Brittain, either a tackle or a guard, has recovered from his shoulder injury and will be okay for Saturday. Mit Fitzsimons has finally tossed off the charley horse that has been riding him to the bounds, so to speak. And so these two players will be at full strength for the game.

The varsity tried its hand at blocking on punts in scrimmage and held off the opposition pretty well. Scrappy Edwards took a re-exam in chemistry yesterday and is hoping for the best. The nimble-hipped sophomore back was forced to miss yesterday's drill because of the examination. His status may be determined today.

REAL ACTION.

As the reserves took over the scrimmage scene there was some real action, too, coming from Jimmy Moore and his mates.

Coach Alex took Moore in hand and temporarily, at least, taught him to cut back. Storky Jimmy, one of the smallest backs on the varsity squad, then proceeded to make headway.

He tossed a forward to John Raine, who lateraled the ball to Ernest Tharpe, resulting in a touchdown. Moore place-kicked the extra point. A bit later, Billy Street, one of the smallest backs on the varsity squad, then proceeded to make headway.

He tossed a forward to John Raine, who lateraled the ball to Ernest Tharpe, resulting in a touchdown. Moore place-kicked the extra point. A bit later, Billy Street, one of the smallest backs on the varsity squad, then proceeded to make headway.

Then Moore hit the line. He kept hitting it. He had holes, but did not cut back. Coach Alex stepped in, showed him the advantage of a cut back and Moore gained steadily thereafter.

He passed to John Raine for a gain of 15 yards and then stepped off 20 himself on a wily and clever play.

The scrimmage ended with Moore hitting into the line, cutting back, side-stepping one tackler, feinting another out of position, and running some 20 yards to another touchdown.

CUSHING INJURED. Glenn Cushing, former Tech high player and one of the leading freshmen tackle prospects, injured a knee going down under a punt and was carried to the infirmary. The injury wasn't serious.

The jacket varsity will engage in very little scrimmage today and will taper off with a long signal session on Friday.

The drive for reserves will continue, however. Roger Hackett must learn to keep his head up on plays where he handles the ball and hands it to another back. He almost broke his neck running into one of his own blocking backs yesterday.

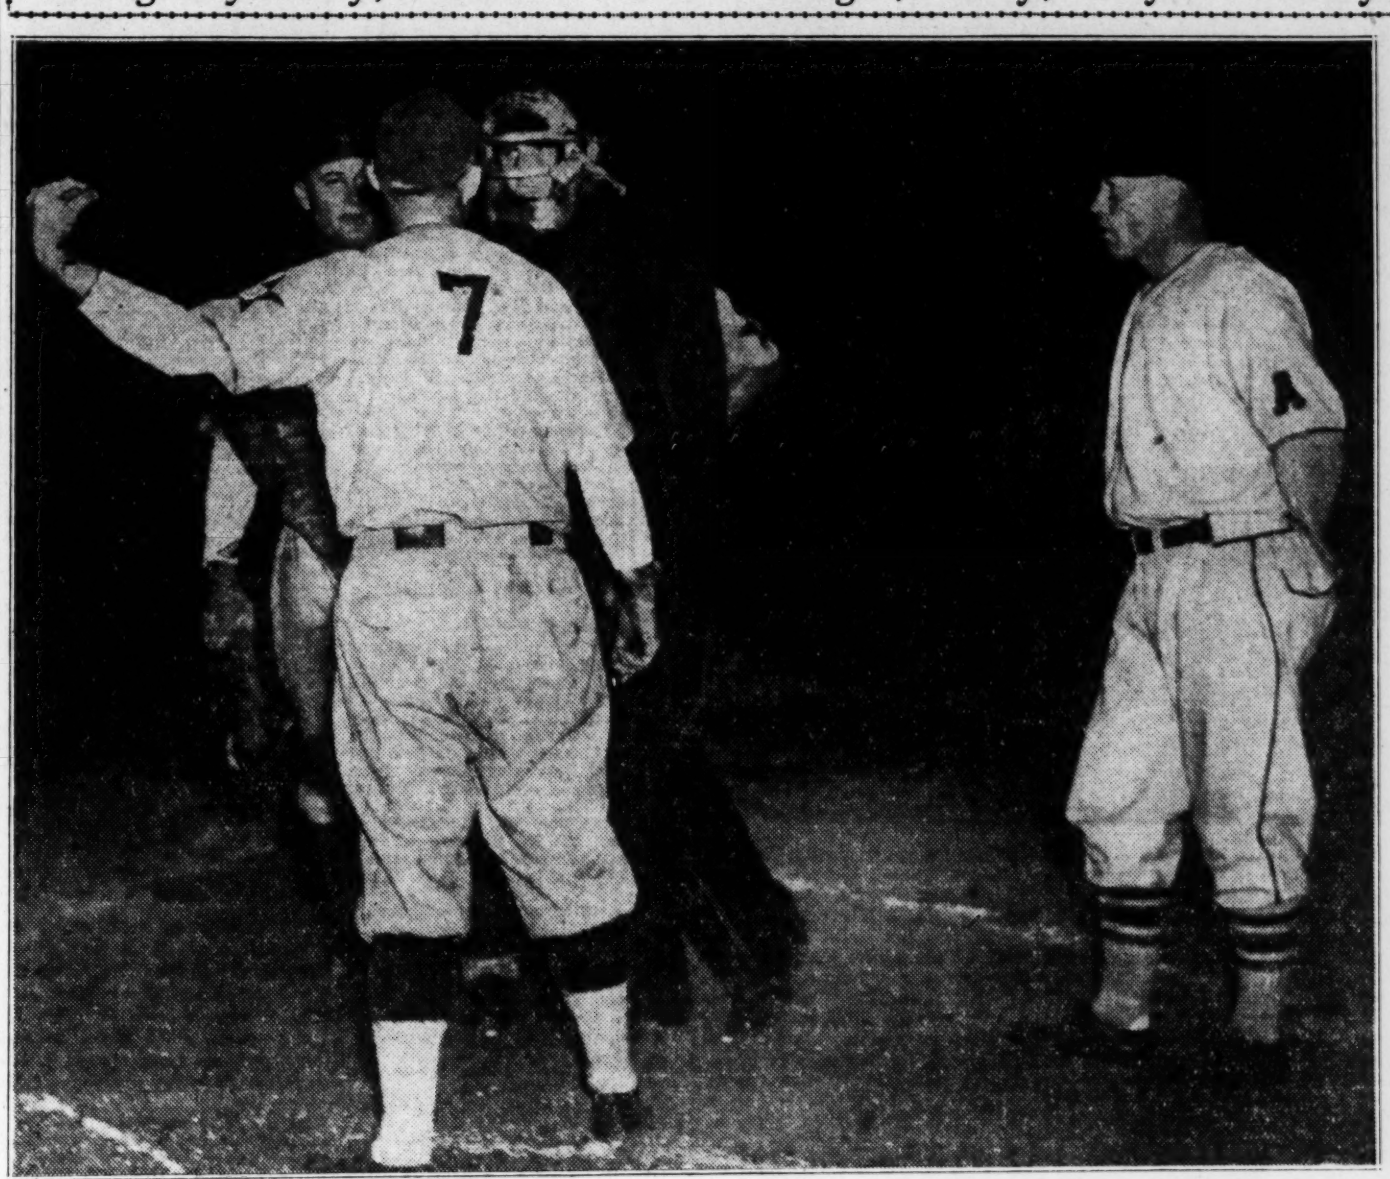

Coach Alex is not expecting anything in the nature of a practice game against Presbyterian Saturday. The Jackets, for one reason and another, are not offered to test the woods.

They'll be offered stubborn opposition and can't expect anything else. Should any of the first string line-men be injured, it would be tougher still.

Presbyterian Runs Well in Scrimmage. CLINTON S. C. Sept. 25.—(P)—Presbyterian's Blue Stockings were put through another long scrimmage against the freshmen squad this afternoon as preparations were continued for the Georgia Tech game.

The hose defense and offense was lax at the beginning but after a while most of the confidence out of the Californian besides slowing him up abruptly. It was a distinct turning point and made the rest of the bout easy for Louis.

'Going My Way, Mister?'---'Not Tonight, Larry,' Says McLarry

This is not, as you might suspect, a scene showing Larry Gilbert, manager of the Pelicans, attempting to thumb a ride to first base. Gilbert is trying to convince Plate Umpire McLarry that ground rules should have applied to Hutcheson's double in the first, holding Hooks, who had singled, to two bases instead of allowing him to score. The umpires couldn't see it Larry's way. Catcher Autry, of the Pels, is shown at the left of Umpire McLarry, while Dave Harris, next man up for the Crackers, is shown as an intent observer on the right. A long argument ensued on the play.

HARRY MEHRE STILL MOANING

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 25.—Coach Harry Mehre had a tale of woe to unfold for inquisitive Georgia Bulldog grid fans after today's scrimmage which threatened to cut into varsity ranks.

"Here we have Harry Harman, varsity tackle, a question mark, along with Alf Anderson, Glenn Johnson and Lew Young just four days before the opening with Mercer. This scrimmage was just what we needed. It was a good one. On his first try, Coach Mehre announced that today's sham battle, in which Harman suffered a broken nose, was the last of the week before the Mercer game here Saturday.

Passing was not of the variety that Coach Mehre would have liked today. He muttered something about the blocking which might be taken as complimentary. He did not commit himself as to what he thought of the scrimmage as a whole. Although the varsity squad scored seven touchdowns against the bewildered "Red Devils," he was in no mood to talk about the merits.

JONES STARRING.

John J. Jones continued to gallop beautifully as a halfback, although his pass-receiving was not satisfactory. Jones seems to be an exception to Coach Mehre's statement to the effect that a player can practice better than he can play under fire. Jones practices poorly but in scrimmages thus far has been hard to stop. He accounted for two scores today, although he tackled. Henry Wagon, right end, circled right end on a 55-yard touchdown jaunt. His second goal came on a 10-yard run.

Maurice Green, fullback, raced 75 yards on this longest touchdown run of the afternoon. John Bond continued his fine playing, scoring two touchdowns. One came on a 50-yard run, while the other was tallied on a 40-yard sprint. Al Minor had good blocking for a 30-yard run to a goal. John McKnight scored the first marker for the varsity, intercepting a pass on the fifth play attempted by the "Reds." The underdogs had been held steadfastly by the varsity with only a few punts.

SAME LINEUP.

Probably the same lineup that started for the varsity today will be called into action against Mercer here Saturday. It was composed of Charlie Harmond, left end; Allan Shi, left tackle; Frank Johnson, left guard; John McKnight, center; Leroy Moore, right guard; Harry Harman, right tackle; Henry Wagon, right end; Charlie Treadaway, quarterback; Al Minor, right halfback; John Bond, left halfback, and Maurice Green, fullback.

Alf Anderson was reported as having a stiff leg as a result of play in Saturday's scrimmage. Harry Harman received a broken nose in today's scrimmage. Glenn Johnson, reserve halfback, aggravated a pulled leg muscle in scrimmage Tuesday. Lew Young, quarterback, is definitely out as far as Saturday's game is concerned. Anderson will no doubt be ready to play Saturday. This is the Georgia injury situation as Coach Mehre continues to round them into form for the initial game, which opens at 3:30 p. m. (eastern standard time), here.

Hook to Stomach Won, Says Referee

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(P)—Arthur Donovan, who refereed the Louis-Baer fight, said today that the decisive punch was a left hook to the pit of the stomach, delivered by the negro in the first round.

"That punch landed at a time when Baer was going pretty good," said Donovan. "I think, took most of the confidence out of the Californian besides slowing him up abruptly. It was a distinct turning point and made the rest of the bout easy for Louis."

Out in the 'Big House' He Dreamed Baseball--

But Now There Was Time Only for "The Works" at a Barber Shop and the Train.

By Ralph McGill.

This happened yesterday afternoon: He looked in, smiled a bit, and came in to take a seat in one of the barber chairs.

His suit was new and of crumpled gray. His shoes were black with knobbed toes.

"A haircut," he said. And began to relax. The shears snapped on.

He wanted to talk. And began, too, talking slowly but with a growing feeling for words.

"Gee," he said, "this feels good. I guess you can tell from this suit—I'm just out. Put in three years out there and got nearly a year off for good behavior."

"I'd like to stay for that ball game tonight," he said. "I used to be crazy about baseball. Out there we had good games. But they weren't real professional games. I'd like to get out there and eat peanuts and drink out of the soft drink bottles and yell at the umpire."

"And besides it's my old home town, New Orleans, that's playing. But I don't live there now. I got to go home and report. And I'm not going to miss. I got to report to that probation man. And I am. But I'd like to see that game."

He looked about him. At the next chair the manicurist, a pretty girl with brown hair, was working on the fingers of a customer. He looked at his own nails and then dropped his hands down.

"A massage," he said, when the haircut was done.

So, he steamed there under the hot towels. He was being sufficed by the greatest balm that could come to him after years of leaping to orders, after long months of doing tasks. He was paying someone else to wait on him; to cut his hair, to massage his face with hot towels and creams. And it felt pretty good.

"Well, I'll be going. But I'd like to see that ball game." He reached in his pocket, pulled out his money and paid the bill. And turned to the left as he left the door—it was 20 minutes to train time.

What was I doing time for? Well, I delivered a package. You can believe me if you want to. But I didn't know what was in it. The government did. It was just the breaks. I didn't have any luck.

LINDSEY OPENS DRIVE IN FIFTH WITH A SINGLE

Kelley Batted Out and Jim Rescues Game; Harris Steals Home.

By Ralph McGill.

The pitching heart and skill of Jim Lindsey—The fighting attack of the Crackers—The larcenous feet of Sheriff Dave Harris—

These three ingredients combined to give the Atlanta Crackers their second straight victory over the New Orleans Pelicans.

The score was 7 to 3 and it left the Crackers with but one more game to win to clinch the pennant and winners in the Southern association and the nominee to carry the Dixie banner into the series with Bert Niehouse of Oklahoma City Indians.

ONE MORE TO GO.

The Crackers expect to complete that little business in the Friday game at New Orleans in which Bob Durham will oppose the former Cracker, Andy Messenger.

There may have been more dramatic incidents than the appearance of Jim Lindsey and his subsequent acts but Ponce de Leon park never saw them.

Harry Kelley, knocked out in his first start in the series, was knocked out again last night in his second start. The end came in the third inning and Jim Lindsey, warming up on the mound, stopped the Pelicans with three runs. The Crackers had one to their credit, it having been driven over by the first run.

LINDSEY FIGHTS.

Jim Lindsey's fighting heart is as large as a south Georgia prize watermelon. His skill is as great. He pitches to a spot and he knows the weakness of batters with uncanny accuracy. Last night he kept the ball wide or low or on their hands. And he struck all the big guns.

But it was his opening single in the fifth which upset the Pelican team and started the collapse of Al Milnar. Jim Lindsey never scares any pitchers. That is, he never had until last night. But last night he pumped a single into right field and ambled down to second.

They laughed as he sauntered on the bag. But before Al Milnar could recover Peck Hamel had doubled and Jim Lindsey was on third.

Johnnie Hill, himself, tore the hands off Morgan, but Morgan held the drive. But there followed four straight singles as Alec Hooks, Joe Hutcheson, Sheriff Harris and Johnny Lipscomb came marching to the plate and took their swings.

DAVIS FOR MILNAR.

Five runs came in here. Al Milnar was pulled and Jim Davis subbed. And it was Jim Lindsey, sprawling away from the plate with each swing, who almost got another hit but who ended the inning with a strikeout.

Sheriff Dave Harris, who is a most larcenous person on the baseball field to possess such a law-abiding name, hit Autry a thrill in the seventh.

He opened with a single. Lipscomb sacrificed nicely. Connally to Ross. But the foundation of Ross was Harris. Harris kept going to the plate and Autry was late covering the bag, the infield being in for the bunk, and so Harris made it with ease.

And Autry, walking a ball and toward the pitcher's box, fumbling with his mask.

The Sheriff saw no one was guarding the right field so he caught a 12 hit by the Crackers, who were one out, hit the Pelicans getting 12. The Pelicans had 14 men left on base. And Larry Gilbert was, so to speak, fit to be tied.

CROWD OF 8,043.

There were 8,043 people there to cheer the boys on. They cheered 13 hits by the Crackers, who were one out, hit the Pelicans getting 12. The Pelicans had 14 men left on base. And Larry Gilbert was, so to speak, fit to be tied.

Hooks, Hutcheson and Harris got two hits each, and the Crackers played errorless baseball.

The comeback, after the lingo of Kelley, was most remarkable. And the real hero of the evening was big Jim Lindsey, the boy with a lot of the old heart. Plenty of it, if you ask me. The club leaves the afternoon at 5:30 o'clock for New Orleans. Eddie Moore, the skipper, is quite, quite happy. He did a lousy job of coaching the boys here this week but since noon he should be manager of the winner.

"We'll get 'em Friday," he said. And I think he will.

FIRST PUNING.

Those Crackers of ours leaped out into a brief lead in the first inning. With two zone the irrepressible Alex Hooks, who had a single in center field. Big Joe Hutcheson banged a double to right which scored center.

The double caught no end of argument. The ball went near the foul line in right field. The temporary stands there came up to the line. The

CARDS MUST WIN ALL FOUR GAMES TO GAIN A TIE

Cavaretta Hits Home Run in Second Inning To Win Game.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(UP)—The Chicago Cubs won their 19th straight victory today, virtually clinching the National league pennant. They beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 1-0, and now need only one more victory in the remaining four games to win the pennant.

The victory put the Cubs four games ahead of the Cardinals, and assured Chicago of at least a tie for the pennant even if St. Louis should win all four remaining games.

Lon Warneke and Phil Cavaretta were the heroes of the Cubs' triumph. Warneke held the Cards to two hits, a single by King and a double by Jimmy Collins, in scoring his 20th victory. Cavaretta won the game with a homer off Paul Dean in the second inning. Dean pitched brilliantly in defeat, allowing seven hits and fanning seven men.

GIANTS LOSE TWO.

The Brooklyn Dodgers won a double-header from the New York Giants, 10-4 and 1-0. An eight-run rally in the second inning featured the first game, in which Bill Clark gave the Giants nine hits. Van Mungo won a pitcher's duel from Fred Fitzsimmons in the second game. Mungo allowed only four hits and fanned six men.

Stripp's single and Buzz Hoy's double accounted for the winning run in the ninth.

Hal Trosky's single in the seventh drove in the winning run as the Cleveland Indians triumphed over the Detroit Tigers, 3-2. Eldon Auker, who started for the Tigers, was struck on the left arm by a line drive from Vosmik's bat in the first inning and had to retire. Chief Hogsett and Schoolboy Rowe finished the game. Lloyd Brown held the Indians to six hits, one of them Hogsett's homer.

WES FERRELL WINS.

Wesley Ferrell won his 25th game by pitching the Boston Red Sox to a 7-2 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics. He allowed only five hits. His brother and battery mate, Rick Ferrell, drove in four runs with a triple and single.

The St. Louis Browns nosed out the Chicago White Sox, 4-3. The Browns made only five hits, with Grube hitting a timely double and Mazzera hitting a homer. Sugar Cain kept the Sox 10 hits scattered.

By FRANK MAC MILLEN.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(AP)—With slightly broader activity, shares moved up a peg or two on the New York Stock Exchange today.

Although a scattering of equities shuffled back a pace in the late trading, the market closed 0.2 of a point higher at 49.5 in terms of the Associated Press average of 60 stocks.

Volume totaled 1,013,430 shares compared with 1,020,554 on Tuesday. Brokers ascribed the brisk trading in part to a reported expansion in the demand for foreign securities.

These appeared still to be an easing feeling over the European situation in Wall Street quarters, where many observers thought they detected a more conciliatory attitude toward all parties concerned in the Ethiopian dispute. This feeling was strengthened by the better tone of European markets.

At the same time some traders in the share market took an interest in aviation stocks because of rumors that the United States government was contemplating sizable orders. Curtiss-Wright common and "A" were very active and United Aircraft and Douglas a little less so, but price changes in the group were mostly confined to fractions in either direction.

Encouraging News.
Most of the domestic business news appeared calculated to encourage the bull forces. Besides the better than seasonal opening, traders especially noted also the statements of the heads of three railroads in the northwest that traffic was showing good improvement.

Along the same encouraging lines for the followers of the rails was the estimate of the regional advisory board for the Great Lakes district that freight car requirements for the fourth quarter would be nearly one-third greater than in the like period of 1934.

While rail stocks moved up only mildly in most cases, the better trend of traffic indicated by these straws in the wind made traders especially hopeful business omen for the fall months.

Some market experts were urging caution because of the substantial rise in the level of stock prices since the beginning of the summer, but in other Wall Street quarters it was felt that the higher price levels had their basis in a considerably improved profit and dividend curve for many listed companies, principally the industrials.

CRACKERS

Continued From First Sports Page

Pelicans claimed ground rules and demanded Hooks be sent back third.

Polly McLarry was behind plate. He let the play go. Theicans stormed. Larry Gilbert appealed. "Bulldog" Williams

They paraded to second where Umpire Steamboat Johnson was at work. He said he had been watching for a play at second, his job being there.

PARADE CONTINUES.

So, off to third base they marched where Buck Campbell, all in black, awaited the committee. He said he was watching for a play at third.

They forgot to ask Umpire Clifton Bond, who was sitting on the bench in the grandstand. But he said the only umpire they missed.

King Kelley was wobbling all about in the third he collapsed in the far as effectiveness was concerned. Harley Boss started with a single. Morgan walked and Jim Gleeson batted a double to center that scored him and sent Morgan to third. Rose hit out to right and Morgan scored a run on the catch. Chick Autry struck out but Connally singled to center to score Gleeson. Kelley hit Lee with a pitched ball and Manager Egan

Moore waved him out of there.

Three runs were in. Stout-head Jim Lindsey went in and stopped root.

THERE GOES MILNAR.

After that Al Milnar showed the why he is considered one of the league's best pitchers. That is, he until the fifth.

In that inning the Crackers suddenly leaped on the startled Milwaukee with three. Jim Lindsey, with three or four hits to his credit in the year, started it with a single to right.

The crowd whooped. But he changed to cheers when Peck had doubled to right. Lindsey stopping the Johnny Hillstead to Mor but the ball was just waiting. Hooks, Hutcherson, Harris and born single in succession. Sixty of the first seven men had hit safely in the first inning.

It was the most abrupt, rude and boisterous rally the Crackers had staged all season. When Jim Lindselee, the great hitting pitcher, joined in the cheering, the crowd roared. He finished it, finally, with a strike out.

That night the Crackers out in a frame once more, six and three.

The Crackers got another rousing seventh on the authority of Sheehan Harris, who was pitched to by the crack-keeps to hit, and then he came on home when he saw Chick Atwood was no closer to the plate than Si Lindselee.

Si Lindselee, pitching his eighth out, choked off a rally in the eighth. With two gone, Boss sangled, Mottler, and he beat out a scoreless hit to fill the bases.

Eddie Rose, that dangerous new up and Lindsey caused him to be out.

In the ninth Big Jim stopped the cold and so it is, "On New Orleans, Louisiana."

where on Friday the Crackers expect to end it with the third straight victory. They need just one more win the Shaughnessy system pennant and go into the Dixie series with B. Niehoff's Indians.

Fight Biggest Place
TOKYO, Sept. 23.—(AP)—The vanguard newspapers allotted the Louis Baer contest larger headlines and more space than any previous fight abroad.

Although editors asserted newspaper interest in the fight merely reflected the growing popularity of boxing in Japan and was not connected with the racial angle, it was none the less worthy that a majority of the headlines stressed Louis' color. "Black man's iron-fisted victory," one said.
